N V RAMANA APPOINTED NEXT CJI, TO TAKE OATH ON APRIL 24

Senior-most Supreme Court judge Justice Nuthalapati Venkata Ramana was on Tuesday appointed as the next Chief Justice of India

TO REMAIN CHIEF JUSTICE TILL AUGUST 26, 2022

Justice Ramana will take over as the 48th CJI on April 24 and will retire on August 26, 2022. He has dealt with several high-profile cases in the apex court. A five-judge Constitution bench headed by him had, in March last year declined to refer to a larger seven-judge bench a batch of pleas challenging the Constitutional validity of the Centre's decision to abrogate Article 370

WAS CHIEF JUSTICE OF DELHI HC FOR A YEAR

- Born on August 27, 1957 into an agricultural family in Andhra, Ramana was enrolled as an advocate on February 10, 1983. He was appointed a permanent judge of the AP High Court on June 27, 2000, elevated as the Chief Justice of Delhi HC on September 2, 2013 and appointed a Supreme Court judge on February 17, 2014

ASSAM, KERALA POLL OVER, SPORADIC VIOLENCE IN WEST BENGAL PHASE-III

TMC, BJP candidates heckled by workers of each others' parties; Sabarimala issue in spotlight

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kolkata/Guwahati/Kochi

AMID sporadic violence and high voter turnout, the third of the eight-phase West Bengal elections concluded on Tuesday in three southern districts, known to be the ruling Trinamool's forts. In Assam, polling in the third and final phase crossed 80 per cent and the process was by and large peaceful although there were some stray incidents of violence.

Kerala recorded a high voter percentage (74.02 pc), though it was a tad less than the previous Assembly elections in 2016 (77.35 pc).

In West Bengal, actor-turned-BJP candidate Papia Adhikary in Uluberia South was manhandled by alleged Trinamool supporters when she went to meet an injured party worker in a hospital.

On the other hand, Trinamool candidate Sujata Mondal in Arambagh, Hooghly, wife of BJP MP Saumitra Khan from Bishnupur, who defected to the ruling party two months ago, was surrounded and chased away by alleged BJP supporters. Her security guard too was allegedly assaulted.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee alleged that the Central forces were intimidating her party's workers and accused the Election Commission of having turned a blind eye to it.

In Assam, the police had to use force when two groups of people clashed over some issues at a polling station in Golakganj constituency in Dhubri district. At Guptipara in Bilasipara West constituency, also in Dhubri district, a group of people attacked security personnel over the distribution of free masks. The police restored order by resorting to caning.

In Kerala, the Sabarimala issue dominated the day's political discourse, with the LDF and the UDF trading charges over whom Lord Ayyappa would support during polling. P9

Tamil Nadu records near 72 pc polling

B ANBUSELVAN @ Chennai

THE sudden surge in Covid cases over the past several weeks did not prevent Tamil Nadu from coming out to choose its next government, as the State recorded 71.79 pc polling, largely in keeping with the tradition of staying well above the 70-mark. In 2011 and 2016, the State recorded an impressive voter turnout of over 78 pc and 74 pc respectively. Of the 6.29 crore eligible voters in the State, 4.51 crore exercised their franchise.

Though the Election Commission framed new rules and provided a few extra facilities to maintain social distancing — for instance, a whopping 88,937 polling booths were set up this time as against 66,316 in 2016 — there were reports from across the State of voters not using them.

This election also took a big leap in improving transparency by ensuring that VVPAT machines were installed at all polling booths, a first in Assembly elections. However, complaints about malfunctioning EVMs and VVPAT machines were reported. As many as 559 VVPAT machines, 174 ballot units, and 134 control units had to be replaced. "The failure rate was hardly one per cent, and the entire election went off peacefully," said Chief Electoral Officer Satyabrata Sahoo. P7

Puducherry clocks a robust 81.64% voting

Puducherry, which went to polls on Tuesday, witnessed 81.64 per cent polling, the Election Commission said. The Union Territory has a total of 10.04 lakh voters. Officials said that polling was brisk from the beginning, with 66 per cent of the voters having already cast their ballot till 3 pm. According to official sources, Yanam, where AINRC leader N Rangasamy is contesting, registered a higher percentage of polling than the other regions. Former CM V Narayanasamy had bowed out of the contest on the ground that he had to coordinate poll-related work in the UT. P7

KARNATAKA SECOND WAVE BATTLE

Biggest spike in Covid cases so far 6,150

POSITIVITY RATE APRIL 6, 2021 6.02%

39 DEATHS REPORTED DURING THE DAY

- Following spike, vegetable and fruit markets in Mysuru to be decentralised to prevent large gatherings
- Hospitals in Davanagere ready oxygen beds to handle the caseload

In biggest spike so far, K'taka adds 6k cases

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA on Tuesday recorded its highest spike of 6,150 new Covid-19 cases in the second wave, besides the highest number of deaths at 39, in a single day. All indicators are pointing to the warning issued by the Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee that the second wave could be much harsher than the first one last year.

Over the past few days, not only are the numbers rising sharply, the active cases (those currently under treatment) too have seen a big jump. The number has risen to 45,107 now from the 6,985 cases on January 22 when the cases were on the decline. The death toll in Karnataka is now 12,696 in the one year and 28 days of the pandemic in the state after the outbreak on March 8, 2020.

Karnataka has been witnessing a daily addition upwards of 4,000 cases consistently since March 31, with Monday seeing an addition of 5,279 followed by 6,150 on Tuesday, the highest growth at 0.60 per cent in the total tally of 10,26,584 cases. The state's highest single-day addition was 10,947 cases on October 7 last year.

The state's positivity rate for the day has also risen to 6.02 per cent while the general positivity rate is 4.64 per cent, which actually went a notch higher after coming down to 4.63 per cent. That was the first time the positivity rate grew since September 27, 2020, when the first wave was at its peak and the positivity rate was 12.54 per cent.

However, the mortality rate fell a notch to 1.23 per cent, still shy of the Health Department's objective of pushing it below 1 per cent.

On the bright side, the number of discharges on Wednesday was 3,487 — the highest so far in the second wave. The total number of discharges so far is 9,68,762, marking a recovery rate of 94.36 per cent.

Age cap for vax won't be lifted soon, says govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday warned the next four weeks are going to be very critical as the Covid-19 situation is worsening faster than it did during the first wave of the pandemic.

The Union Health Ministry also stressed the need to ramp up vaccination while indicating that the age cap for taking the jab won't be relaxed anytime soon despite demand from some states, since vaccine available is "finite". Even Western countries have conducted vaccination in phases, Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan reasoned. "The basic aim is to reduce death through vaccination. The other aim is to protect your healthcare system. The aim is never to administer the vaccine to those who want it but to those who need it."

NITI Aayog Member (Health) Dr V K Paul said Covid-appropriate behaviour, like wearing masks and staying away from crowds, have to be followed in a campaign mode. P10

Buses to go off roads in state from today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IRKED over the State Government's refusal to bring their salaries on par with the 6th Pay Commission recommendations, around 1.30 lakh employees of all state road transport corporations in Karnataka — including BMTC — have decided to indefinitely strike work from Wednesday. However, to ensure that citizens are not inconvenienced with the major mode of commute going off the roads, the Transport Department is making alternative arrangements.

Transport Commissioner N Shivakumar told TNIE that alternate arrangements have been made. "We have requested private buses and mini-buses to operate. These buses will ply till the time the strike is called off. Children attending offline classes and office-goers could be affected, so alternative arrangements are being made to the extent possible," he said.

Tarun Bajaj is new revenue secretary, Ajay Seth in DEA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN a major bureaucratic reshuffle in the Union finance ministry, the government on Wednesday appointed Economic Affairs Secretary Tarun Bajaj as Revenue Secretary and brought in Bangalore Metro chief Ajay Seth as the new secretary in the Department of Economic Affairs (DEA).

Tarun Bajaj

Ajay Seth

Bajaj, a 1988-batch Haryana-cadre IAS officer who has served in the PMO, has played a big role in the government's 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' package.

Seth, a 1987-batch IAS officer of the Karnataka cadre, has been the managing director of Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation since 2018. He has also served in the Health & Family Welfare and the Finance Departments in the state.

Seth is returning to central deputation after 13 years. He was an adviser with Asian Development Bank from 2004 to 2008. Prior to that, he had held the post of director in the Economic Affairs Department.

India Inc wary as US moots global minimum corp tax

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WHILE the US is leading an international effort to create a global minimum tax on corporate profits, India Inc says the move will have not have any impact on India.

On Monday, US Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen called for a global minimum tax that would apply to multinational corporations, regardless of where they locate their headquarters.

"Together, we can use a global minimum tax to make sure the global economy thrives based on a more level-playing field in the taxation of multinational corporations," she said, adding that it would prevent a "race to the bottom" in which countries cut tax to entice companies.

She said this is aimed at "making sure that governments have stable tax systems that raise sufficient revenue to invest in essential public goods and respond to crises."

With the EU and the IMF also supporting the move, experts believe countries like India that have cut tax to attract multinational companies would come under pressure to raise rates.

On September 20, 2019, India had announced a massive tax rate cut, lowering the base corporate tax rate to 22% from 30%, and to 15% from 25% for new manufacturing companies.

However, India Inc thinks it is not an easy idea to implement. "It is easier said than done. It will be like asking countries to give up their global competitive edge," said a senior member of the Confederation of Indian Industry.

BMRCL OBJECTS TO HEBBAL FLYOVER PLAN, WORK HALTED

Wants change in alignment; Metro airport line to run at second level of flyover

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Hebbal flyover project, aimed at decongesting daily traffic bottlenecks on the flyover, has ground to a halt. The Bangalore Development Authority (BDA), which came up with a major proposal to decongest it earlier, is today clueless about the progress of the project.

A senior official said, "All work came to a standstill long ago, following objections raised by Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) to our detailed proposal, as it would affect their airport line. BMRCL wanted to have their line at the second level of the flyover, and wanted a change in the alignment proposed by us."

BMRCL Managing Director Ajay Seth said, "With the alignment proposed by BDA, the Outer Ring Road-West Metro link would not be possible. Hence, we sought a change in design and an elevation of the proposed additional flyover loops."

On the project's present status, he said, "RITES (consultancy firm) has submitted its draft report. A committee headed by the Public Works Department secretary has to decide on it."

A senior government official said the technical committee set up by the government had made a detailed presentation to the chief secretary over six months ago. "Representatives from BMRCL, BDA, Traffic Police, BMTC, Karnataka Road Development Corporation Limited and PWD were present," he said. "The final proposal with two additional lanes on either side of the flyover was okayed, with Metro trains proposed to run at the second level."

With many officials recently transferred to the BDA, no one could give proper responses on the project.

The BDA proposal envisaged ten lanes branching out from Hebbal flyover -- five lanes going from the airport to the city and five lanes in the reverse direction – with all being signal-free corridors. Three new uni-directional lanes had been proposed from Bengaluru city towards the airport, crossing Hebbal junction, an underpass from Tumukuru end and a uni-directional flyover from KR Puram at the second level. BDA had earlier proposed two lanes from the airport toward the city, on which work was stopped midway.

Trial runs of second line of Metro's Phase-II held, may be ready by June

Bengaluru : The first trial run by Metro for the Mysuru Road-Kengeri Line commenced at 10.15 am on Tuesday and continued till 6 pm. The line may be ready by June and the trial runs will continue for a month. Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) Managing Director Ajay Seth said, "We conducted a test to check traction power and side gaps. The speed of trains, which ran at 5 km/hr on Tuesday, will be increased from Wednesday." Asked about the deadline, Seth said, "We are confident of meeting the June 2021 deadline of commissioning the Western Extension of the Purple Line up to Kengeri as part of Bengaluru Mission 2022," he said. Elaborating on future tests, he added, "The next set of trials will be on signalling as well as track side communications systems." Chief Public Relations Officer B L Yashavanth Chavan said, "Electrical, civil, traction and signalling officials were among those on board the train conducting the tests. After the tests are completed, we will approach the commissioner for Metro Rail Safety for clearance." The first line of Phase-II was launched on January 15 this year. ENS

No takers for 36% of RTE seats

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

THERE are no takers for nearly 36% of RTE seats in private aided and unaided schools even as the April 8 deadline for applications draws close.

Data from the department of education on Tuesday showed there were 8,980 applicants for the 14,036 seats available this year. Education districts such as Uttara Kannada, Madhugiri, Kodagu, Bidar, Chamarajanagar and Dakshina Kannada had the fewest number of applications for RTE seats, with Uttara Kannada having just one applicant for the 11 RTE seats available in the district.

The education district of Bengaluru South had more applications than the number of seats available. There were 2,179 applicants for 734 seats. Similarly, Mysuru had 1,186 applications for 733 seats. Districts such as Bengaluru North, Chikkamagaluru, and Dharwad, had applicants for over 90 percent of the number of available seats.

Educationist Niranjanaradhya V P weighed the drop in applicants for RTE seats against the increase in the number of students enrolling in government schools due to pandemic-induced economic difficulties. "Parents may be thinking it is better to send their children to government and aided schools. Parents may look at admission in private schools as a burden. The economic capacity of several parents was effected in a serious way," he told TNIE.

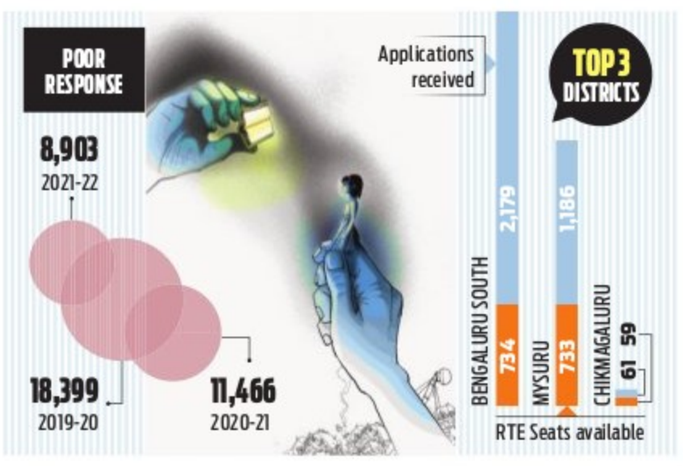
There may be other reasons too, he said. "The government has taken concrete measures towards infrastructure development -- such as Karnataka Public Schools. Hence, with comparatively good government schools with facilities, infrastructure, and teachers, may have caused a reduction in RTE applicants," he added.

Longer decline

The number of applications for RTE seats fell by 38% in 2020-21 from the previous year. In the upcoming academic year too a shortfall is likely. The number of applications in 2021-22 fell by 22% from the preceding year. The number of RTE seats in 2021-22 fell by 3,417 from 2020-21.

Commissioner for Public Instruction Anbu Kumar said that measures such as informing the public via newspapers and opening call centres had helped several parents apply.

Although the number of RTE applicants had reduced, Kumar said that there were fewer students who were 'out of school' this year. "There has been no great reduction in admissions this year. To ensure that migrant students enrolled, we followed up with those who migrated within the state. Schools were told to admit the students to whatever class they were eligible. Admissions for the current year too were extended to March 30," he said.



Home Guards to join marshals in fighting Covid

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

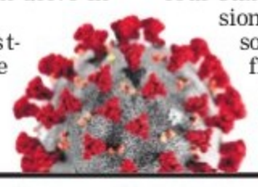
BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Tuesday said that from Wednesday, marshals will be accompanied by Home Guards while they crack down on those violating Covid-19 protocols.

Speaking to media persons after visiting Victoria Hospital to check the vaccination drive and availability of beds, Gupta said, "Though the penalties will be levied by marshals, Home Guards will assist them. They will also help in creating awareness."

Gupta said that a meeting had already been held with resident welfare associations and that more meetings would be held with other RWAs, Asha workers and private hospitals for support in spreading the message of getting vaccinated. He said that they had been offered empty apartments, hotel rooms and hostel rooms to be used as Covid Care Centres. He added that two lakh vaccines were arriving in Bengaluru on Wednesday. He said that there was a need to beef up the vaccination drive in the city.

He said the testing numbers have been increased in places where cases are on the rise. He said officers have also been instructed to check the positivity rate in apartment complexes besides conducting tests in wards and PHCs. He said talks have also been held with private hospitals to reserve 20 per cent of their beds for government referred Covid-positive patients.

He said as per the state government's decision, negative RT-PCR test reports were compulsory while entering from four states only. "The decision to make it compulsory for those coming from other states is under discussion," he added.



SSLC exams: Minister tells officials to be ready

Bengaluru: Minister for Primary & Secondary Education Suresh Kumar on Tuesday asked officials to start preparations for the SSLC examinations on the lines of the preparations held last year. He was speaking at the SSLC and PUC board examination preparation review meeting in Dharwad. He told officials to do a SWOT analysis on the way last year's exams were conducted during the start of the Covid pandemic. He also said that a decision to hold exams for children from Classes 1 to 9 will be taken in a week's time. ENS

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

07th April: I am often asked how astrology works. Let me explain by saying some more about time. If, as many astrologers suppose, all times – past, present and future - exist in the same moment, then it's a question of working out exactly where in the time continuum we stand. If you don't understand that, then you're not alone!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Moon maintains its supportive position so you should feel relatively strong emotionally. Legal, educational and travel matters should all benefit, but the underlying need is to maintain a morally impeccable standard. That's the best way to earn respect.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Hopefully you are so involved with new ideas or projects that you are able to keep your distance and let others work out their problems without troubling you. You owe nothing to people to whom you have made no promises, so don't submit to undue emotional pressure.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Partners' fantasies may not be your business, but they have the power to make them so! You'd better take an interest from the beginning or risk causing needless offence to people who feel let down or ignored. You know the rules - if you're nice to people now, they'll stand by you later.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There seems to be little let-up at work or in your routine chores. Whether you're in paid employment or tied to domestic chains, the planetary message is clear and unequivocal: stick with it! And a partner who wants you to do what they want, might just have to wait for a while!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Recently you seem to have been caught in some sort of emotional tug-of-war. The situation has now eased, although there is still plenty to come to light. Continue your inquiries, and examine your own behaviour. And, above all, be kind to people who have given you their trust.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
With so much planetary activity stressing personal ties and involvements it seems that you must make whatever effort is necessary to see that all goes according to plan. Family members, children and loved ones will be queuing up for your gentle attention!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It's because enthusiastic alignments are so active that your whole outlook should be optimistic and hopeful. It's one of those strange times when, if you believe in the best, the best may happen! And the results will be even better if you set a fine and noble example.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You might still have a few doubts, but not for much longer. There may be some sort of financial sacrifice necessary now, but a little extra spending in the short term should guarantee you extra earnings in the long run. Just how this is to happen is as yet unclear, but all will be revealed in good time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You can continue to play the game your way, even if partners have different ideas. Change the rules, move the goal posts and do whatever you like to see that you come out on top. The one area where risks are taboo is financial, especially if you're dealing with other people's cash.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There is much uncertainty in the air and you still seem to be unsure of your own feelings. Until you have made your mind up, any commitments should only be for the short-term, if only because you need to take a fresh approach when circumstances change - as they will surely do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are a person of contradictions. Outside, all is social confidence. Inside, all is romantic turmoil. You have no choice but to follow your feelings wherever they take you, but do tread carefully. If you can come out of this period with a friendship strengthened, then all will be well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Any professional concerns could be a hangover from events that took place over the previous few days. Very much more important now is a group involvement which may be connected to your work, but which also affects your emotional well-being and social confidence.

WORLD HEALTH DAY

03 | BENGALURU WEDNESDAY | 07.04.2021 A SPACE MARKETING INITIATIVE

BUILDING A HEALTHIER WORLD

April 7 of each year marks the celebration of World Health Day. From its inception at the First Health Assembly in 1948 and since taking effect in 1950, the celebration has aimed to create awareness of a specific health theme to highlight a priority area of concern for the World Health Organisation.

In recent years, countries across the globe have experienced rapid economic growth, migration and urbanisation. This created opportunities for better lives for many, but left others behind. The COVID-19 pandemic has undercut recent health gains, pushed more people into poverty and food insecurity, and amplified gender, social and health inequities.

This World Health Day is a call for action to eliminate health inequities, as part of a year-long global campaign to bring people together to build a fairer, healthier world. The campaign highlights WHO's constitutional principle that "the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health is one of the fundamental rights of every human being without distinction of race, religion, political belief, economic or social condition."

The world is still an unequal one. The places where we live, work and play may make it harder for some to reach their full health potential, while others thrive. Health inequities are not only unjust and unfair, but they also threaten the advances made to date, and have the potential to widen rather than narrow equity gaps.

However, health inequities are preventable with strategies that place greater attention to improving health equity, especially for the most vulnerable and marginalised groups. COVID-19 has hit all countries hard, but its impact has been harshest on those communities which were already vulnerable, who are more exposed to the disease, less likely to have access to quality health care services and more likely to experience adverse consequences as a result of measures implemented to contain the pandemic.

Thus, the call across nations has been to ensure that communities are at the forefront in decision-making processes as we move forward to a new future, and that everyone has living and working conditions that are conducive to good health. At the same time, we have to monitor health inequities, and to ensure that all people are able to access quality health services depending on their needs and values within their communities.

Cancer Screening

The Time is Now

DR. NITI KRISHNA RAIZADA

Cancer Screening is testing for cancer most of whom will be without any symptoms. The aim of screening is to detect precancerous changes which if left untreated lead to cancer. Screening programs consequently also detect those with cancers but are not aware of the same, and they can benefit from early detection resulting in a possibility of a cure. Thus, screening is effective when it is well organized, covering large swathes of the population, repeated periodically and have a system for follow-up for effective treatment for those who have been found to have abnormalities. The tests which are used should be easy to carry out, and as its highly sensitive so that it does not miss detecting the possibility of cancer, the cost of the equipment should be affordable, portable, easy to maintain. Infrastructure and personnel to read / analyze the results in a timely fashion should be in place. Ideally the programs should run with Central planning and opportunistic occasional screening will not lead to desired results. Consequently, while planning for cancer screening, the commonly occurring cancers are targeted rather than the uncommon ones. Hence, screen for Cancers of the Breast, Cervix, Colo-rectal, Oro-pharyngeal and less often for Lung, prostate and ovaries.

Breast Cancer

While on the one hand public education for self-examination of the breast is encouraged, more so during the 20-30 years of age, the need for Mammogram annually is ideal after that. However, mass annual screening with Mammogram is a yet impractical for a country like India.

Other portable methods which are very sensitive are being incorporated. First among them is the ultrasound examination of the breast. While it is an excellent, low cost, portable test. Newer advances using piezo electric technology which tests for impedance and thereby pick up early lesions are proven to have high sensitivity of over 90%.

These are being rolled out in India by NGO's with some good outcomes. Several such equipment now abound, and they will probably become mainstay in the future as we combat this eminently curable cancer

Cancer Cervix

The Gold standard methodology remains PAP smear, but the rate limiting step is the study of these smears by trained pathologists. PAP smear is performed once in 3 years in women between 20-30 years and once in 5 years for women between 30-65r years. Cervix cancer screening by testing for Human Papilloma Virus (HPV) which causes this cancer & other tests (VIA, VILI) are known to complement but not comparable on their effectiveness for use alone.

Colorectal Cancer

Annual testing for occult blood in stools is the ideal screening test and should start by 40th year of age. Occult means what is not seen in naked eyes. Sigmoidoscopy should be performed once in 5 years and Colonoscopy once in 10 years as per the guidelines in India. These scopies need to be performed in hospitals by Gastroenterologists.

Lung cancer

Screening is usually recommended for individuals with history of smoking with low dose CT thorax every year after 55year of age with men/ women more than 30 pack years of smoking.

Prostate cancer

Screening involves digital rectal examination and a blood test known as Serum PSA test. Screening is done in certain subsets only.

New modality of screening includes genetic screening which involves genetic panel mutation tests which look for any mutations in genes which have potential to cause cancer. This is done for individuals with personal or family history of cancer, cancer at an early age, or individuals who belong to ethnicity which has higher cancer incidence. Certain genetic mutations which run in family other than BRCA include PTEN, APC, TP53 etc.

Active participation of health authorities trained medical professionals and general public is the key to successful screening program along with political will, good infrastructure, and education among masses.

So, the emphasis is on, 'I am, and I will'. Which means that our commitment to act will lead to powerful progress in reducing the global impact of cancer. We need to create a Cancer Free World; it is within our capability and we owe it to our people.

BJP uses PM's speech to boost cadre morale in bypoll seats

Leaders recognise efforts of workers while campaigning in Maski, Basavakalyan, Belagavi

BJP national general secretary C T Ravi and party workers watch PM Narendra Modi speak on the party's Foundation Day, in Bengaluru on Tuesday | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

WHETHER it is putting up name boards outside block president's residences in Maski, or gathering workers to view and take inspiration from Prime Minister Narendra Modi's speech in Belagavi, or hoisting party flags at Basavakalyan, leaders of the Karnataka BJP on Tuesday converted the party's Foundation Day celebrations into a super fuel to enhance the party's presence in bypoll-bound seats.

Inspired from the Prime Minister's speech that the success of the BJP is only the tip of the iceberg, but its real strength came from its cadres, party in-charges led the celebrations in their respective bypoll-bound seats.

"The Foundation Day has nothing to do with the upcoming bypolls, but we need to remind our cadres of the party's history and our leaders' sacrifices, especially to those who have joined the party recently. The cadres were inspired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's speech and are confident of working with more commitment for the party," said Jagadish Shettar, Minister for Industries, and one of the in-charges for the Belagavi parliamentary seat bypoll. He was in Belagavi on Tuesday, campaigning for party candidate Mangala Suresh Angadi.

In Maski, party general secretary N Ravi Kumar led the campaign to put up nameplates with the party symbol outside every block president's residence. The initiative was to recognise the efforts put in by these leaders in every election. Party flags were also hoisted atop houses and offices of party cadres.

In Basavakalyan, a screening of the Prime Minister's speech was organised for cadres and supporters. In Bengaluru, party national general secretary C T Ravi led the celebrations at the state BJP headquarters, while Deputy Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan hoisted the party flag outside his residence.

Transport strike: Govt acts tough, says no negotiations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS transport corporation employees are going ahead with their indefinite strike from Wednesday, impacting services across the state, the government on Tuesday rejected their demand for salaries recommended by the Sixth Pay Commission and warned them of strict action if they go ahead with the strike. The government, however, agreed to give an 8 per cent hike in salaries as an interim measure and is waiting for the Election Commission to clear it.

Appealing to the employees not to go on strike, Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar said, "No Work, No Pay" policy is in force and the government is mulling imposing the Essential Services Maintenance Act. "People cannot gather in groups and if they do, action will be taken under Disaster Management Act. We will also slap cases under Police Act, the Indian Penal Code, ESMA against them."

He said it is not possible to consider the employees' demand for higher salaries and the government will not negotiate with the employees. "The chief minister made it clear that we need to take strict action. We appeal to them not to go on strike," he said after attending a meeting chaired by CM BS Yediyurappa.

The Government has fulfilled eight out of nine demands of the employees and agreed to give an 8 per cent hike in salary as an interim relief, and nothing more can be done. Since the model code is in force because of the bypolls, Ravi Kumar has written to the Election Commission seeking its clearance.

State road transport corporations are incurring a loss of Rs 4 crore every day and despite that, the salaries are not delayed, he said. The number of people commuting by BMTC buses has reduced from 45 lakh to 20 lakh and it is likely to decrease further with Covid numbers increasing.

The government has made alternative arrangements by allowing private buses, school buses, vans and other transport vehicles to operate from Wednesday. He said that those damaging public property will be dealt with severely. Action will be taken against anyone, including farmer leader Kodihalli Chandrashekar, if they issue provocative statements, he added. Kodihalli is at the forefront of the transport strike.

Due to the poll code, it is not possible to revise the pay scale of KSRTC employees. If they stick to their decision of launching the strike, alternative arrangements like allowing private bus operators will be made so that people do not suffer

FORUM FILES PRIVATE PLAINT AGAINST PANT, TWO OTHERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Janadhikara Sangharsha Parishath, a Bengaluru-based human rights forum, has filed a private complaint against three police officers, including Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant, for failing to register an FIR in the sleaze tape case, allegedly involving former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi.

Adarsh R Iyer, co-president of the organisation, filed the private complaint register (PCR) against Pant, DCP (Central Division) M N Anucheth and Cubbon Park Police Inspector Maruti B before the 8th Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate court on Tuesday. He filed the PCR under Section 166(A) (public servant disobeying direction under law) of the IPC.

The petitioner had filed a complaint with the Cubbon Park police station on March 16, demanding that an FIR be filed against the three officers, as they failed to register the FIR for alleged sexual offences by a person in authority, based on a complaint by social activist Dinesh Kallahalli. But the police had not filed a case.

In the PCR, the petitioner requested the court to direct the Station House Officer of Cubbon Park station to lodge the FIR against the three officers, monitor the status of the investigation, or pass any other order/direction as may be necessary or expedient in the facts and circumstances of the case. The court has registered the PCR and adjourned the proceedings till April 16.

SIT officials meet Jarkiholi's doctors

Belagavi: SIT officials probing the CD-gate involving Ramesh Jarkiholi are continuing to keep tabs on the former minister, admitted to the ICU at Gokak Taluk Hospital after contracting Covid. A two-member probe team met the doctors treating the former minister at the taluk hospital on Tuesday. They spent an hour inquiring about Jarkiholi's condition and when he will be fit to report to SIT. Sources said Jarkiholi's condition has not improved. The doctors indicated that it may not be possible to discharge him for some more days. According to Dr Ravindra Antin, the SIT asked the hospital authorities to keep it informed about the date of his discharge.

"AROUND 2,000 buses will ply in Bengaluru substituting the BMTC. Passengers using KSRTC, NEKRTC and NWKRTC services will be informed by SMS of the alternative arrangements," added Transport Commissioner Shivakumar. The Ola and Uber taxi drivers unions said, "We morally support the strike called by the bus drivers' and conductors' unions. But we will not be a part of it. All taxis will operate normally."

BMRCL has decided to increase the number of Metro services to mitigate the effects of the strike. From Wednesday, trains will run every 4.5 minutes on the Purple Line and very five minutes on the Green Line, from 7am to 9pm.

The four transport corporations together have 24,000 buses. Of these 6,500 vehicles belong to BMTC, 4,000 to North Eastern Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (NEKRTC), 5,500 to North Western Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (NWKRTC) and the biggest number of 8,000 to Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC).

The Chief Traffic Manager of KSRTC has written to all other transport corporations asking them to make other arrangements like roping in private bus operators and stationed school buses in the wake of the strike. In the meantime, BMTC and KSRTC managing directors issued a circular to all their employees urging them to call off the strike. They also said that if employees do not report for duty, they will not be paid salaries.

While the unions announced on Monday that the strike will start from Wednesday, many drivers and conductors started going off the roads from Tuesday afternoon itself, catching commuters off guard, and leaving many stranded. In some parts of Bengaluru, BMTC buses did not ply on scheduled routes from Tuesday afternoon.

In other districts like Tumakuru and Shivamogga, KSRTC drivers, who were to ply evening services, left the buses at the depots and headed home to participate in the strike.

Unions said BMTC, KSRTC, NWKRTC and NEKRTC bus drivers and conductors have joined the protest.

A senior official from the Transport Department requested commuters: "In the wake of rising Covid-19 cases and the strike called by various unions, citizens are requested to avoid travel, unless it is essential." The unions said this will not deter their spirit in any manner and that the strike will go on as scheduled. "No bus will ply from April 7 morning, and whichever depot buses reach, they will be parked there itself."

With choppers booked out in poll season, CM forced to take road trip

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

AT 9.30am Sunday, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa set off on a 290-km drive to Belludi, close to Harihar, and reached after three hours. He participated in the anniversary celebrations of a mutt, and began his return journey to Bengaluru around 1.30pm, reaching after 4.30pm.

A 600-km journey by road can be exhausting, but CM Yediyurappa was forced to undertake the trip as his logistics team couldn't find a chopper for hire, and gave up after a hard week-long search.

With elections in a number of states, choppers are hard to come by, having been booked months in advance. For the record, Karnataka does not own an official helicopter.

Since it's election time in West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Assam and Puducherry, besides bypolls in Karnataka and elsewhere, most choppers have been booked by political parties

Capt Arvind Sharma, CEO, Agni Aviation

CEO of Agni Aviation Capt Arvind Sharma said, "Since it's election time in West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Assam and Puducherry, besides bypolls in Karnataka and elsewhere, choppers are in high demand, and most of them have been booked by political parties."

There are around 650 registered aircraft in the entire country, and about 100 of them are helicopters. Experts say the Chief Minister would mandatorily have to fly a twin-engine helicopter. They may be fewer than 25 twin-engine choppers for hire, and none are available because of elections.

Official records reveal that Chief Minister R Gundu Rao used to fly a Chetak helicopter, and during CM SM Krishna's time, a twin-engine Dauphin helicopter was used. Both are no longer in use. The Dauphin was damaged in an accident in HAL airport in the early 2000s, and for 17-18 years, successive governments have had to depend on hired choppers to fly VVIPs.

A source in the CM's office said the Dharam Singh government had attempted to acquire its own choppers, but gave up the idea due to the prohibitive cost, besides maintenance and hiring a pilot. Sources said that after Bertie Vaz, the last pilot, retired, a few pilots who were interviewed had demanded prohibitive salaries, higher even than the chief secretary's pay.

As one chopper pilot said, "It's easier to hire an aircraft rather than own one. Though there are many advantages, most users prefer to hire choppers."

KSE's press meet today: CM camp, BJP worried

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

A press conference called by Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa at 11.30 am on Wednesday triggered 'concern and anxiety' among Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's close circles and within the BJP.

Eshwarappa has already kicked a hornet's nest by writing a letter to Governor Vajubhai Vala, alleging interference by the chief minister. The concern within the chief minister's close coterie was that Eshwarappa could say something again to embarrass the government and Yediyurappa, while the saffron party was worried about the impact of the minister's statement on by-elections to three seats, going to the polls on April 17, sources said.

Some political observers wondered whether Yediyurappa would drop Eshwarappa from the ministry if the attacks continued.

Sources said the differences between the two are primarily over Article 166 of the Constitution where as a member of the cabinet Eshwarappa has certain powers, while the primacy of the chief minister too is important.

Asked about press meet details, Eshwarappa said, "Wait till tomorrow." But sources at Vidhana Soudha said there may not be any attack on Yediyurappa, and the press meet could focus on the achievements of Eshwarappa's ministry. The minister may also attack CLP leader Siddaramaiah who taunted him recently, they added.

75th I-Day: Hubballi flag unit expects big orders

AMIT S UPADHYE @Hubballi

OVER the next few months, it will be a busy schedule for the national flag-making unit in Hubballi, the only such facility in the entire country, as the Central Government is planning to procure a large number of national flags to celebrate the special 75th Independence Day.

The expectation is that the Centre could order around 30 crore flags of different sizes that will be distributed across the country to celebrate 75 years of the birth of the nation.

A meeting was held here to discuss ways to cater to the demand. It was attended by officials of the Karnataka Khadi Gramodyoga Samyukta Sangha, Chairman of Khadi and Village Industries Commission (KVIC) V K Saxena and CEO Preeti Varma.

Women workers make national flags at the Bengeri khadi unit in Hubballi | D HEMANTH

Annually, we make anywhere between 50,000 and one lakh national flags of different sizes. The sale and demand is more during August and January. But this time, the order is likely to be large because of the silver jubilee celebrations

Official of flag-making unit at Bengeri

An official from the flag-making unit at Bengeri in Hubballi confirmed to The New India Express that a massive bulk order is in the offing. "This is the only certified unit which supplies national flags to all parts of the country and abroad. Annually, we make anywhere between 50,000 and one lakh national flags of different sizes. The sale and demand is more during August and January. But this time, the order is likely to be large because of the silver jubilee celebrations, and we have promised the officials that we will provide as many flags as possible," he added.

"The entire operation of making flags is looked after by 20 women workers at the Bengeri unit. If there is a big jump in numbers, we will have to hire and train new people. The officials who came from KVIC have taken back flags of three sizes and they will soon decide which ones will have to be made and at what numbers," the official explained.

DyCM: Govt to focus on e-vehicles

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

The State Government is focussing more on logistics and electric vehicle adoption, said Deputy Chief Minister and IT-BT Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan, here on Tuesday.

At a panel discussion on 'Governing Goods on the Move', organised by the World Economic Forum as part of the 'Global Technology Governance Summit 2021,' he said that the country, being a growing economy, needs to invest in robust logistics infrastructure and efficient supply chain.

The government has fast-tracked the long-pending Bengaluru suburban train project, expanded the Bengaluru Metro train network and assisted last-mile logistics companies in their operations, he added.

HIGH FATALITY RATE MARKS 2nd COVID WAVE

342 deaths in last month; middle-aged, young more at risk; death audit to be held

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

WITH the number of Covid-19 cases rising in Karnataka, the number of deaths has also shot up. A comparison of Covid death figures from January 5 to April 5 shows an exponential rise in the mortality rate. In the past month alone, Karnataka recorded 298 deaths, and experts have advised people to stay cautious.

According to health bulletin statistics, 112 Covid deaths were recorded from January 5 to February 5, and 121 from February 6 to March 5. However, from March 6 to April 5, mortalities rose to 298.

A majority of deaths in the past month were in the 40-90 plus age group, with ILI and SARI symptoms, and many had comorbidities like diabetes, hypertension and chronic kidney disease.

Dr HM Prasanna, president of Private Hospitals and Nursing Homes' Association, stated that hospitals have started ramping up ICU beds, but the second wave has shown the disease as unpredictable, so people need to stay cautious. "Many hospitals had converted their Covid ICU beds to non-Covid beds, and are now bringing back Covid ICU beds. This time, we see the disease behaving differently with each age group, and it depends on the individual responding to the disease. Unlike the first wave, where more deaths were reported among the elderly, now we are seeing them in younger age groups," he said.

He also pointed to a variation in symptoms this time. People suffering from headache, blocked nose, diarrheoa and abdominal pain are not coming forward to get themselves tested, and are also reporting late. "People are reporting late as they are unable to understand the symptoms of the second wave. With many, health condition deteriorates very fast, even with medication. One needs to report early," he added.

Dr Giridhar Babu, member of the state's Technical Advisory Committee, pointed out that with a rise in cases, there are bound to be more deaths. "We have made recommendations to the government, firstly, that no crowding should be allowed. However, many of the orders are being revoked. People need to follow safety norms to help keep cases under control."

On the number of deaths in the middle-age group, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar stated that mortality among the young and mid-age groups is a cause of concern. "Mortality among the young and middle-aged is a serious matter. I have directed the Technical Advisory Committee to conduct a death audit. The second wave is spreading faster than the first one. While we cannot predict the severity of the situation right now, we are prepared for it," he said.

SUDHAKAR ASKS CENTRE FOR MORE VACCINES

Bengaluru: Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Tuesday said he had appealed to the Centre to provide more vaccines to the state. Speaking to media persons after participating in the Union Health Ministry's video conference with health ministers of 11 states and Union Territories, he said that the Centre had praised the Karnataka government for the number of RT-PCR tests being done. He added that the state government also spoke on increasing the oxygen available for patients. On Covid guidelines, he insisted that the norms should be uniform across the country regarding cinema halls, inter-state travel, meetings and other gatherings. ENS

K'taka No. 6 in vax drive; 48L+ get jabs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

KARNATAKA has vaccinated over 48 lakh people, and stands at sixth position among states, since the immunisation drive was rolled out on January 16.

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said, "Over 48.05 lakh people were vaccinated till Monday, and 1,95,554 people got the jab in the past 24 hours. Over 22.5 lakh people who were vaccinated are aged over 60, and 10.4 lakh people are in the 45-59 age group. Karnataka is in 6th position in the country in implementing the vaccination drive. Maharashtra, Gujarat, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal are other states leading the drive. The Union Government provided an additional 15 lakh doses of vaccine on Monday."

The minister pointed out that a vaccinated person is not completely immunised from infection. "The severity of the infection will be less in those who are vaccinated. We have seen instances of those who are not vaccinated being admitted in ICUs. I urge all eligible persons to take the vaccine without hesitation," he said. The state has reserved 33,697 beds for Covid-19 patients, with 15,733 oxygenated beds available in government hospitals, of which 10,083 beds are reserved for Covid cases.

On a possible lockdown, he said Karnataka should not face the situation that Maharashtra does. "People need to cooperate. We have received requests from the movie industry to allow 100 per cent seating in cinema halls. I will discuss it with the CM, who will take a final decision," he said.

Pvt hospitals to reserve 50% beds for govt patients

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH cases rising rapidly, the Karnataka government instructed private hospitals and health facilities to reserve 50% of their beds for government-referred Covid-19 patients. Just a day ago, the government had directed private hospitals to reserve 20% of beds for Covid care.

On Tuesday, the government modified the rule to make it mandatory for them to set aside half their bed capacity — including high dependency units (HDU) and ICU beds with and without ventilator. The government also said that private establishments are free to use the remaining beds to treat Covid patients who come on their own.

These were the rules specified in the government order dated June 23, 2020, which has been invoked again. The order also restored the rates the government had specified last year for treatment of Covid patients.

Requisitioning of hospitals for government patients will be done BBMP Chief Commissioner and Deputy Commissioners of districts. For patients referred by the government, charges for the general ward have been fixed at Rs 5,200, Rs 7,000 for HDU, Rs 8,500 for isolation ICU without ventilator and Rs 10,000 for isolation ICU with ventilator.

For private patients, rates have been fixed at Rs 10,000 for the general ward, Rs 12,000 for HDU, Rs 15,000 for isolation ICU without ventilator, and at Rs 25,000 for isolation ICU with ventilator.

Recovery rate on a downward spiral since Jan

THE recovery rate has been steadily declining since January third week. It saw at a high of 97.94 per cent on January 22.

Bengaluru Urban district was the highest contributor to the number of cases with 4,266 new cases.

The total positive cases are 4,55,025. Of the day's total, 26 Covid deaths were reported in Bengaluru while the total discaharges are 4,17,726.

With the state capital by far being the main culprit in powering the second wave figures, its active cases have been spiralling upwards from 10,766 on March 23 to 32,605 cases on Tuesday.

However, Bengaluru Urban has been doing much better on the mortality rate than the entire state at 1.03 per cent, compared to Karnataka's overall figure of 1.23 per cent.

WORLD HEALTH DAY

XPRESS FOCUS

SURYA HOSPITAL
Tumakuru's Saviour

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI

WHEN COVID19 cases in Tumakuru was on the rise and the health machinery had to face a tough task, one man took it upon himself to do his bit and provide some solace from the menace. Dr Lakshmikanth J, a doctor with MBBS and MD degrees converted his centre, Surya Hospital, in to a COVID19 Care Centre(CCC) and treated over 250 patients effectively during the first wave of the virus.

The doctor, regarded as 'doctor of masses', is known for his special attention to poor patients.

Now, with the second wave causing much panic, Dr. Lakshmikanth says that people at their individual level have a great responsibility as they should follow all SOPs and check the spread of the virus. "The government on its part had sacrificed investing on the pandemic and getting the vaccine discovered. The second wave is because of complacency, chalta hai, kind of attitude that has crept into the minds of the people that they should remove themselves," he says.

He stresses that the lockdown is not a solution as it had been during the first wave. "We could improve the health infrastructure to treat the people and make resources like ICUs, Covi19 Care Centres(CCC), oxygen, etc. available and get ready with the infrastructure to wage a war against the virus. Now, it will not help if the individual does not take the responsibility," he points out.

At Surya Hospital, he along with his wife Dr Rachana J T, and colleagues, Dr Arjun, Dr Suresh Babu, Dr Sandeep and psychiatrist Dr Lokesh Babu have created a conducive environment. They even set up a canteen to provide nutritious food like ragi mudde, and soppu saaru, the staple food of the rural people.

"It was challenging as our staff was apprehensive considering the mysterious nature of the virus, but along with IMA members, we took a decision to not run away from responsibility and set up the CCC," he states.

Dr Lakshmikanth J (centre) with his team

The team of dedicated doctors and the staff extended their services day in and day out, meeting the needs of patients by creating a homely environment and provide required hospitality.

Reimbursement

According to Dr. Lakshmikanth, reimbursement from the government has been delayed and it is discouraging those who want to treat COVID19 patients. "The government should release the dues as soon as possible to encourage the good service-oriented private doctors to ensure they extend their help during the second wave," he says.

He also adds that there is stigma attached when a hospital is converted into a CCC, and that the government should understand and help fill at least 25 percent of the beds to help the hospitals.

"The government should be proactive in supply of the drugs and release of dues. If delayed further, I am afraid that private hospitals will not show interest to set up CCC. I request the health minister, Dr K Sudhakar, to take serious note of this," he stresses.

Vaccine

Dr. Lakshmikanth vouches for the efficacy of the vaccine and says that his team and his entire family has been vaccinated and it is effective. "A lot of effort is put in to discover the vaccine, and it will help a lot, especially for patients with comorbidities," he says, and adds that it will certainly improve immunity and work as a shield. "None of us who got a jab faced any side effects," he says.

Surya Hospital has also started vaccination free of cost.

He states that Tumakuru has over 1000 active cases and it is just the tip of the iceberg. "The virus has spread to the community and only if more random tests are done will it be established. More tests are required and Test-Track-Treat protocol should be adopted. Since the medical fraternity had enough experience during the first wave, they are prepared to tackle the situation more effectively," he notes.

AIIMS Pursuit

Although he has been running a private hospital, he was a force to reckon with when a proposal of opening a branch of All Indian Institute of Medical Sciences(AIIMS) in Tumakuru was proposed. "There was 120 acres of land available at the erstwhile HMT Watch factory-IV premises. We pursued the matter but ISRO took over that space. Still I continue to nurture my dream of getting AIIMS in Tumakuru," he says.

ADVERTORIAL

Veteran Kannada author Mumtaz Begum died at a private hospital in Mangaluru on Tuesday after a brief illness. She was 73. Begum, who was engaged in the field of literature for five decades, has written several works including 'Avyakta,' 'Paradeshi,' 'Vartula,' 'Bandalike,' 'Chimpi,' 'Ankura Sahita Kathe,' novels, and poems.

Served without fear or favour, says Justice Cunha

The judge who retired on Tuesday adjudicated in high-profile cases

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

Justice John Michael Cunha being felicitated by the Advocates' Association of Bangalore (AAB) in Bengaluru on Tuesday, in the presence of AAB general secretary Gangadharaiah, Chief Justice of Karnataka High Court Abhay Shreeniwas Oka, AAB president AP Ranganath and others.

QUOTING scripture from the Bible, "The day of death is better than the day of birth", Justice John Michael Cunha paraphrased it for his retirement, saying, "The day of retirement is better than the day of swearing-in as judge".

Justice Cunha was speaking at his farewell ceremony at the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday, after attaining superannuation. Born on April 7, 1959, Justice Cunha was appointed Additional Judge of the Karnataka High Court on November 14, 2016. As a judge of the trial court, Justice Cunha, who hails from Mangaluru, was known for historic judgments, like the conviction and sentencing of former Tamil Nadu CM J Jayalalithaa, her aide Sasikala Natarajan and two others, for their involvement in the disproportionate assets case.

Though the Karnataka HC reversed this judgment, the Supreme Court intervened, and confirmed Cunha's judgment. Recollecting this, Karnataka High Court Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka said, "The judgment of the trial court has become history. But the important observation made by the Apex Court was that 'the trial court was meticulous, sensitive, vigilant and judicious in appraisal of evidence', thus, the Apex Court summed up the judicial quality of Justice Cunha in one line."

The Chief Justice also noted that Justice Cunha had disposed of 216 criminal cases within a short duration as Special Judge, after he was assigned cases involving MPs and MLAs.

To quote a few recent major judgments, Justice Cunha declined relief to Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa in land denotification cases, he granted relief to IPS officer Hemant Nimbalkar in the IMA ponzi case, and KPCC president DK Shivakumar in cases registered by the Income Tax department for evasion of tax.

Sharing his views, Justice Cunha narrated how 2001 became a turning point for him. "For the first time in the history of the High Court of Karnataka, a written examination was conducted for selection of District Judges in 2001. It is only because of this examination that I could get into the judiciary. Otherwise, I couldn't even have dreamt of it," he said.

The exams, besides having transparency and objectivity in the selection process, also paved the way for representation of diverse sections of society, he added. Justice Cunha concluded by stating that he did not have any regrets. "I have the highest satisfaction of serving the institution without fear or favour. I have never done anything to damage the image of the judiciary and served the cause of justice to the best of my ability," he said.

'Spl court couldn't have taken I-T plaints on DKS'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

NOTING that the launching of prosecution against KPCC president D K Shivakumar by the I-T Department was premature and illegal, the Karnataka High Court has said that the Special Court, set up exclusively to try criminal cases involving elected representatives, could not have entertained the complaints filed by the central agency.

Dismissing the appeals filed by the I-T Department against the discharge of Shivakumar by the Special Court in February 2019, in cases of alleged tax evasion and disappearance of evidence, Justice John Michael Cunha observed that the court could not have assumed jurisdiction to try the alleged offences without the accused having been committed for trial, as the prosecution launched against the accused is contrary to the procedure prescribed under the CrPC and I-T Act provisions.

Justice Cunha said that unless it is determined that the unaccounted transactions unearthed during search were liable for payment of tax, penalty or interest, no prosecution could be launched on the ground of attempt to evade such tax, penalty or interest. As a result, the prosecution launched against him is premature and illegal and hence, it cannot be allowed to continue.

Justice Cunha noted that the requisite sanction was given by the competent authority and therefore, the reasoning of the Special Court that the authorised officer was not competent to file prosecution complaints is legally untenable.

I-T officials filed three complaints against Shivakumar for allegedly evading tax to the tune of Rs 3.14 crore, 2.56 crore and 7.08 crore for 2015-16, 2016-17 and 2017-18, respectively.

Court issues notice to govt over licence norms for private hospitals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OBSERVING that prima facie, the circular issued by the Commissioner of Health and Family Welfare Services will defeat the purpose of the Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (KPME) Act, the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued notices to chief secretary, additional chief secretary, health and family welfare services commissioner, BBMP commissioner and urban development department principal secretary.

IN THE HC

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice John Michael Cunha was hearing a PIL filed by Bharat Yuvajana Sene from Tilak Nagar in Bengaluru.

The petitioner questioned the circular issued by the commissioner of health and family welfare services, granting several exemptions to private medical establishments against the law, in the guise of simplifying the process of registration/renewal, under the KPME Act. "It is necessary to note that none of the hospitals provide public service or free service to patients. Patients will be charged, but without the trade licence, their profit will increase," the petitioner alleged.

In a circular dated August 17, 2020, the commissioner had stated that trade licence is not necessary as medical service is an essential service, and they are not trade bodies. The petitioner stated that if is the case, BBMP was collecting Rs 43 crore from 900 medical establishments within its limits, while there are more than 5,000 hospitals in Bengaluru Urban. With the minimum fee for trade licence being Rs 16,800, the approximate revenue BBMP gets is Rs 8.40 crore. When there is no trade licence, there is no GST, which is also a revenue loss, the petitioner said. Cafeterias, physiotherapy centres and medical stores inside the establishments too do not require trade licence, which is against natural justice, the petitioner alleged.

Two foreigners held in drug case

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Central Crime Branch on Monday arrested two Africans on charges of peddling drugs and recovered cocaine and MDMA tablets worth Rs 10 lakh. The suspects had allegedly created a social media group to sell drugs to their customers, who were mostly techies. The police is gathering details about those buyers.

The suspects have been identified as Kwame John Ghanajan, (32), who hails from Ghana, and Anthony Obalim (43) from Nigeria. A team of Anti-narcotics Wing officers raided a house in Ramamurthynagar, and caught the accused. They had stocked cocaine and MDMA tablets in a cupboard which were seized.

They have been booked under the NDPS Act, and the police is probing their network.

Woman dies after casting vote

Palakkad: A 70-year-old woman collapsed and died while returning after casting her vote here on Tuesday. The deceased is Karthyayani Amma, 70, wife of Appukuttan of Machath House, at Vithunassery in Nenmara. The Nenmara police said that the incident happened on the premises of ALP School at Vithunassery. Though she was rushed to a private hospital at Nenmara, she died after an hour. Karthyayani is survived by children Babu, Dinesh, Ramesh and Renuka.

65-YEAR-OLD MAN DIES AFTER VOTING

Thanjavur: A weaver from Krishnankoil East Street in Ayyampettai, who went to a matriculation school in Aghraharam area to cast vote, fell unconscious after coming out of the polling booth. According to sources, K Arjunan, was rushed to Ayyampettai Government Hospital, where doctors declared him brought dead.

Polling station roof collapses, 5 hurt

Ramanathapuram: The roof (in picture) a polling station at Kandilaan village (Mudukulathur constituency) collapsed partially injuring five voters on Tuesday. According to sources, there are 626 voters in Kandilaan village, where a polling station was created at a community hall. While villagers were polling in the morning, the concrete ceiling of the station partially collapsed. Five voters sustained injuries and were admitted to the Mudukulathur Government Hospital.

Not so 'indelible' after all, ink vanishes after few hours

Chennai: Isolated incidents of the indelible ink disappearing after a single wash was reported in Coimbatore North and Chennai. While a couple of more incidents were reported on social media, TNIE could not verify the claims. Vishnu Swaroop was among the first to vote in his constituency in Coimbatore (North). He voted at the Kovilmedu Corporation High School at 7:30 am and came back home to realise that his electoral ink had washed away by 10:30 am. The returning officer of Coimbatore (North) however denied any such incident in the constituency.

DMK cadres try to bribe voters; ₹25K seized

Dindigul: As much as ₹25,000 were seized from DMK cadre who were allegedly trying to bribe voters at a polling station in Metupatti near Chinnalapatti of Athoor constituency here on Tuesday. The issue came to light after AIADMK and PMK cadres including PMK candidate M Thilagabama, staged a road roko demanding the arrest of the DMK men concerned. Returning Officer of Athoor constituency claimed that polling was not affected. However, he confirmed that money was seized by the Flying Squad officials and a complaint was lodged at Chinnalapatti police station.

Tension as 400 names go missing in TN constituency

Covid didn't deter this man from exercising his franchise. Bhuvanesh Kumar, who recently tested positive, cast his vote in Madipakkam | ASHWIN PRASATH

OMJASVIN M D & HARISH MURALI @Chennai

TENSION prevailed in the Harbour constituency for a while as at least 400 people, mostly from the Muslim community, were not allowed to vote as their names were not found in the electoral roll.

This despite many finding their names in the online electoral roll but it was missing the official hard copy at the booth. This led to protests outside the Measi School booth for a few hours. The men and some women raised slogans alleging that it was a ploy to remove 'Islamic votes' to help a particular candidate. About 20-25,000 Muslims live in the Harbour and they constitute a major vote bank.

While many protested, most women voters left with disappointment. "We leave all our work and come for voting. How long can we wait in this sun?", questioned a 66-year-old woman voter. Similarly, a 76-year-old man said he has cast vote in more than 10 elections in the Harbour constituency, with the most recent one being the Lok Sabha polls in 2019. "I was shocked to find my name missing," he said.

Members and leaders of Jamaat joined the protest along with some members of OBC communities, who also said their names were missing.

DMK Harbour MLA PK Sekar Babu rushed to the spot and said, "The names of all missing people are present in the electoral roll copy given to us. How can it be missing in the official copy at the booth," he questioned. When TNIE contacted Corporation Commissioner G Prakash, he did not respond.

No booth slips

Failure to provide booth slips left many voters disappointed after they were turned away by the officials.

In Nanganallur, ICDS centre, 60-year-old, S Padma, who was waiting at the polling booth from 6.45 am to cast vote was disappointed after the officials turned her way asking for her roll number.

Padma said,"The Election Commission failed to provide booth slips and not everyone carry their mobile phones to check their booths and number." K Anandhi who came to the Thiruvanmayur booth went to party volunteers who were outside the polling station for collecting the details. MNM candidate from Tambaram constituency Siva Elango alleged that at Seventh Day Adventist Higher Secondary School in West Tambaram, booth slips of parties were provided, which is a violation.

PROXY POLLING

MAN FINDS HIS BALLOT CAST EVEN BEFORE VOTING

Tiruchy: While most polling stations see little to no drama on D-day, there are some where high drama takes place. A polling booth at Ponmalai in Tiruchy district, among other places, witnessed scenes from Kollywood flick Sarkar played out at the polling booth when R Ramesh Kumar (34), an engineer working in Abu Dhabi, found that his vote had already been cast. Ramesh Kumar of Mel Kalkandarkottai who had come on a vacation on March 22, went to the Government Middle School, his allotted booth, to cast vote. He was shocked when informed that his vote had already been cast.

FANS DECODE STARS' POLL MESSAGE

ENS @Chennai

SYMBOLISM matters, especially when it comes from influencers on election day. Minutes after actors Ajith and Vijay stepped out to vote, their fans got busy decoding the political message behind their accessories and outfits. While Ajith wore a black mask with red straps -- which was construed as being in keeping with the DMK flag's colours — Vijay rode a red-and-black bicycle to his booth. Was it intentional or mere coincidence?

Actor Ponvannan drew a portrait of the 'red and black' mask and bicycle, and uploaded the same on social media on Tuesday morning, when polling was underway. Vijay went to his booth in Neelankarai in style -- on a bicycle. Some said politicians campaigned for many days to bring home the problems faced by the people due to the rise in prices of petrol and diesel.

Ajith courted controversy after he grabbed the cellphone out of a fan's hand, allegedly for coming close without wearing a mask. He returned it a while later.

It's Sabarimala politics in Kerala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi/bureaus

THE controversy surrounding the entry of women into the hill shrine became a major talking point on Tuesday after G Sukumaran Nair, general secretary of the Nair Service Society (NSS), said the issue continued to rage because it still rankled the devotees.

In what was perhaps the first instance of the NSS supremo junking his equidistant policy in politics, he said the devotees were still angry with the LDF for its stance on the issue. "I believe the people of Kerala want a change of government," he told reporters after casting his vote around 7.30am in Changanassery, triggering a volley of comments from across the political spectrum. While leaders of the Congress and BJP latched on to Nair's remarks to put the CPM-led LDF government on the defensive, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan's response was that Lord Ayyappa and the entire pantheon of gods were with the LDF who stood with the people. "Not just the Hindu gods, the gods of other religions are also with this government," the chief minister said, after he cast his vote at R C Amala Basic UP School in Pinarayi at 8.15am.

The Communist leader's invocation of the gods to justify the government's position furthered the debate, with Opposition Leader Ramesh Chennithala claiming that Ayyappa's wrath will fall upon the LDF. BJP state president K Surendran called the chief minister an 'asura' (demon) who misused the government machinery to bring young women to Sabarimala. "The government made all arrangements and used its machinery to take non-believers to the temple under the cover of darkness. Now when he says the gods are with him, no one will believe him. He is a weak leader. He has changed his position after sensing his defeat," Surendran said in Kasaragod.

Pandemic fails to dampen poll mood in Pondy

BAGALAVAN PERIER B @Puducherry

AFTER a first few hours of brisk voting in Puducherry, sparking expectations that the polling percentage would cross 90, the figure settled at 81.64 by the end of the day.

Of the 1,934 Covid-19 patients in the region, 510 turned up to vote in accordance with the safety protocol for Covid.

The Assembly elections in the Union Territory began at 7 am on Tuesday, except at a few booths, where EVMs suffered glitches that were later rectified. In first four hours, the polling percentage crossed 20, and by 3 pm, it crossed 66.

Yanam recorded the highest polling percentage of 91.27, while Raj Bhavan recorded the lowest — 73.24.

The Union Territory has 10,04,507 eligible voters, and 1,558 polling booths were set up to ensure not more than 1,000 were at each. A total of 1,558 control units, 1,677 polling units and 1,558 VVPATs were used.

Speaking to the media after voting at the Government Girls French School on Mission Street, former chief minister and senior Congress leader V Narayanasamy said, "We are fighting this election against religious and communal forces. Our promises of loan rebate and government jobs have received a good response."

Poll officer seeks detailed report on VVPATs

ASKED about Opposition's allegations that some VVPATs were showing only one particular party's symbol no matter what button was pressed on the EVM, Sahoo said the allegations were "false". While a TV channel reported a booth-capturing attempt in Velachery, Sahoo dismissed it saying no such incident happened.

Asked about the complaint filed by Thondamuthur DMK candidate Karthikeyan Sivasenapathy, claiming he was being prevented from entering a booth, Sahoo said he had sought a detailed report from the DEO. However, he maintained that the incident was a law and order problem and everything is under control. Similarly, on the complaints of tokens being issued by political parties to voters, Sahoo said reports are being sought from officials concerned.

Explaining the security measures for the EVM units, which will have to be protected in strong-rooms for the next one month, Sahoo said three-tier, round-the-clock security has been arranged till votes are counted on May 2. "We have set up 75 centres for counting of votes," he added.

Polling began on a brisk note on Tuesday, with 13.8 per cent polling being recorded between 7 and 9 am. The poll percentage then rose to 26.29 by 11 am, 39.61 by 1 pm and 53.35 by 3 pm. In the next two hours, it increased to 63.60 per cent, and ended at 71.79 per cent by 7 pm. "We received the polling data from presiding officers via mobile phone. The final data, to be released on Thursday, and will be slightly higher," said Chief Electoral Officer Satyabrata Sahoo.

MURDER MOST FOUL

Thanks to CCTV footage, sororicide comes to light

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A young man who killed his 20-year-old sister and tried to pass it off as a train run-over incident by dumping her body on the railway tracks near his home in Horamavu was exposed thanks to CCTV footage and his pet dog. Briefing the media, Government Railway Police Superintendent Siri Gowri GR said, "The 24-year-old R Ravi Kiran, who works in a fish stall, was opposed to the man his sister R Mangala had fallen in love with and had repeatedly warned her. On the intervening night of March 4 and 5, in a fit of rage, he took a dupatta and strangled her around 2.40 am. He did not intend to kill her, but she died on the spot."

Kiran then decided to dump her body on the railway tracks running near his house so that trains would pass over the body and destroy all evidence of murder, the SP said. He first placed the body at a spot where there was some light and then moved it to another spot that was dark so that no one would notice it, she added.

But someone from the nearby VM Madonna Apartments noticed the body and alerted the GRP Control Room around 3 am. "A Hoysala vehicle rushed to the spot and retrieved the body before any train could run over it," she said.

"During the interrogation, Kiran told us that he went outside his house to give milk to his pet dog and found his sister missing. But his behaviour and body language were suspicious. We found footage of a CCTV camera nearby which confirmed our doubts. The youth was wearing Bermuda shorts and was carrying his sister's body on his back. A dog was running behind him," she added.

The team detected the same Bermuda shorts in his house. Their mother was in the house at the time of the crime, but she is chronically ill because of tuberculosis, she said. "On sustained interrogation, he confessed to his crime," the SP added. The youth has been arrested by the Baiyappanahalli police.

TIME TO REVISIT CURRENT STRATEGIES AGAINST MAOISTS

More than a decade after former PM Manmohan Singh described left-wing extremism as the biggest internal security challenge, the governments both at the Centre and in the state seem to have been found wanting once again, resulting in the death of more than 20 security personnel in an ambush by Maoists in Bijapur, Chhattisgarh. Administratively, the government seems to have done little to improve things on the ground through development and providing basic amenities. These provide fertile ground for insurgents to hold sway among the common people. Even officials in the government and the security forces acknowledge that it is the writ of the rebels, not of the state, that runs in parts of Chhattisgarh. Besides a failure at the government level, tactically too, the Maoists seem to have outsmarted the forces again. While a detailed inquiry will throw light on what led to the heavy casualties, initial reports point to another failure to learn from past experiences and not adhering to standard operating procedures. While returning from the operation, the security personnel, instead of taking the ridge and occupying the high ground, seem to have walked down below, making them sitting ducks for the Maoists who were lying in wait. Such errors underline the poor quality of leadership at the ground level.

The Bijapur encounter has brought into focus the debate over the suitability of central armed police forces in fighting the Maoists. Most states such as Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra and Odisha, where also left extremism was a scourge until recently, have managed to curtail the Maoist menace by strengthening their own police force and intelligence apparatus. While policy planners and the security establishment must be aware of the advantages and limitations of an outside force vis-a-vis the local police, for some reason it is only Chhattisgarh that is so dependent on the Central Reserve Police Force and its elite guerilla warfare wing, the CoBRAs, for anti-Maoist operations. Most security czars are now convinced that the state police is best suited to tackle the insurgents because of their familiarity of the area, terrain and language. It is time to take a relook at all the current strategies so that more blood of our security forces is not shed.

SPORTS IN THE GRIP OF COVID AGAIN

India is in the grip of the second wave of the coronavirus. New confirmed cases have risen to over a lakh and the seven-day moving average is also showing signs of an upward trajectory. Sports once again is facing its wrath. There are cases of Covid positives in teams and training camps; even officials are not being spared. Just when nationals were being organised or planned, Covid struck again. Scheduled domestic sporting events have been indefinitely postponed. The Badminton Association of India pushed back all domestic ranking events to be held in the months of April and May. Archery and swimming nationals were postponed. Elsewhere, some of the country's elite swimmers were forced out of water, at least until Monday, as the Karnataka government decided to close swimming pools. As it stands, the Indian Premier League (IPL) is going ahead but more than a dozen people associated with the tournament have tested positive for the virus in less than a week. Athletes staying in National Centres of Excellence in Patiala and Bengaluru have also tested positive. All this indicates that the pandemic could yet derail the Indian sporting ecosystem for a second year in a row. A lot of the National Sports Federation (NSFs) had to postpone or cancel events in 2020. This has had a disastrous effect on the age-group athletes. One year has already been lost and one just hopes this year too doesn't get wasted.

There is also the lingering fear of what an uptick in new cases could mean for the Olympic probables. A few of them could test positive and at the very least be forced to quarantine for two weeks. With the Tokyo Games just three months away, they can ill afford any virus-enforced breaks. To prevent such a situation, the sports ministry and the NSFs should either initiate vaccinations for all Olympic-bound athletes or station them in bases outside India where the threat of the virus is low. Interestingly, some of the Olympic-bound athletes have already been vaccinated. With very little time left for the Games, one cannot afford to be lax.

The love Malayalam writers get cuts across religious, caste and political barriers. The roots of this go back to Kerala's Renaissance and its social and cultural impact

MOST PRIVILEGED WRITERS OF THEM ALL

PAUL ZACHARIA
Award-winning fiction writer

AMIT BANDRE

The stereotypical image of the writer—destitute, harried, neglected—is hardly the norm in today's Kerala. In the first half of the 20th century, writers hardly held regular jobs. Their income from writing barely met their essential needs. The writers of today are, by and large, part-time authors with full-time jobs. They are anchored in a middle/upper middle-class world with safeguards like a pension. Today, it is possible to make a decent living by writing alone—there are many who do—but it requires high-volume productivity and wide acceptance. There are many economically struggling writers. Their situation has got more to do with their inability, like thousands of other citizens, to win the rat race for livelihood than with their being writers. The individual writer may belong to any of these categories.

The point is that if you look at a broad picture of India's literature, the Malayalam writer may turn out to be the most pampered and privileged among all, including those writing in English. The Indian English writer is of course a celebrity both abroad and in India, but one wonders if they receive the same warm, household acceptance and instant recognition across the board that the Malayalam writer gets in Kerala and wherever Malayalis are.

The respect and love they receive cut across religious, caste and political barriers. Of course, the peaceful coexistence of three major religions is a fact of life in Kerala—though under massive onslaught in recent times—and it's no surprise it extends to the society's attitude to literature. The same goes for caste. It does contaminate hearts but blatant displays are the exclusive privilege of the so-called caste leaders. And there are cliques and lobbies in literature as well, but at the end of the day, it's not these that prevail but the consolidated secular, democratic, value-based consensus.

Perhaps the Malayalis' capability to place literature in a prominent place in their society is an interesting cultural benchmark, but not studied as such. Certainly, education and universal literacy play a big part in creating this capability. Equally important perhaps is the fact that language and literature have a strong presence in Kerala's school syllabi up to Class 10. Once the classroom is behind you, chemistry or commerce may not occupy a pedestal in your mind but literature often does, because it weaves memorable narratives that science or humanities normally do not. And that goes a long way towards keeping writers and literature buoyant in a society where reading is an ingrained habit ever since the advent of commercial printing in 1821 (CMS Press, Kottayam, established by Benjamin Bailey, a British missionary and friend of John Keats).

The roots of the special relationship between Malayalis and their writers go back to the historic event of Kerala's Renaissance and its powerful social, political and cultural impact. Modern education initiated by Christian missionaries with the support of the local royalty and British colonial rulers had triggered the process of change that was taken forward by personalities like Narayana Guru, the spiritual reformer, and Ayyankali, the Dalit liberator. It was further strengthened by the Independence movement and later given a progressive and revolutionary makeover by communist ideology. The centripetal force of change, fed by an explosion of secular knowledge and an array of cultural and social awakenings that followed it, led to the founding of modern Kerala. And writers were an integral part of it, engraving their names into people's memories not only with their creative work but also their frontal attack on the feudal social order.

Education and social change together, thus, gave birth to a society of readers of all classes eager to learn about the world they lived in and experience the newfound joys of literature. It was the growth of the literary market—spearheaded by the world's first writers' cooperative society, the Sahitya Pravarthaka Sahakarana Sangham (SPCS) of Kottayam in the 1950s—that prompted the media to present well-known writers as celebrities, positioning them with glamour equal to idolised political leaders or film stars. Vaikom Muhammad Basheer, Thakazhi Sivasankara Pillai, O V Vijayan, Kamala Das and the living legend M T Vasudevan Nair are perhaps the earliest of such icons.

> The beautiful place the Malayalam writer occupies in Kerala is the generous gift of a unique community of secular, discriminating readers, resourceful publishers, enterprising booksellers and a vibrant network of libraries

The social goodwill for writers is made up of many acts of attention and appreciation, small and big, genuine and not so genuine. Take the little but transparent courtesies that meet you as you go about daily life: a smile, a bow, sometimes a quick word to say 'nice to see you' from strangers. The brief pleasantry from the ticket examiner in a crowded train, the 'how are you?' from the booking clerk, the unexpected offer of help from a passer-by in a difficult place, followed by 'you're so-and-so, aren't you?'. The policeman's smiling nod, the autorickshaw driver saying, 'I'm your reader', or the sudden encounter with an unexpected reader: A headload worker with a big bag on his back stopping to say how he enjoyed your last piece. And most crucially, the attention you receive in the unreal world of suspended animation of the sarkar office—which, ironically, happens to be one of the places where readers abound.

A remarkable phenomenon is the soft corner for writers displayed by the moral-policing hypocrites of Kerala's mainstream orthodoxies—of which the media is a prominent entity. In general, they show this tolerance only to writers' trespasses, apart from their own. The canvass of goodwill is vast: the incredible number of literary awards; the seen-to-be-believed crowds at literary festivals listening to writers in rapt attention; the incessant flow of invitations from the Malayali diaspora all over the world; the constant, often taunting, demand from various sections of society that writers speak their mind on vexing social issues.

The writer never gets to see the final, shameful end of this saga of goodwill: the media obituary that stops at nothing but a shrill crescendo, a mad melee of shallow praise mired in unforgivable cliche, embellished with images of VIP visits, tearful adieus and close-ups of the body in the coffin or the burning pyre. The unkindest cut is delivered by the state government: the sacrilegious and uncivilised gun salute over the poor writer's body whose record of violence was, in all probability, negligible.

All these are mere details. In the final analysis, the beautiful place the Malayalam writer occupies under Kerala's God's own sun is nothing but the generous gift of a unique community of secular, discriminating readers, resourceful publishers, enterprising booksellers and a vibrant network of libraries. But one question seems to have no answer: Are the writers grateful? Who knows.

INSTANT LOAN APPS, PATH TO A DEBT TRAP

ANURADHA GOYAL
Author and founder of IndiTales

Hindi films of yesteryears projected moneylenders as evil characters, whose only purpose in life was to torture the righteous hero who is unable to repay the loan that his father took. A little later, they said bank loans are not available to all, so poor villagers are trapped in the moneylenders' hands. When I wanted a loan for business, I realised banks only lend against collaterals. I wondered if it was simpler and cheaper to sell the asset and buy it again when you can afford it.

With the liberalisation of the economy in the 1990s came the credit card culture that taught us to spend now and pay later. Interest rates were mentioned in fine print so that you could easily miss them. Then came the easy loans for the salaried class, which allowed us to buy that dream car, home and gadgets instantly. People assumed a steady growth in salary and kept picking up loans. Recession was rarely budgeted for. Slowly the unpleasant stories of harassment by loan recovery agents started reaching our ears. We ignored them thinking this would not happen to us.

The latest in this arena are instant loan apps. They offer unsecured loans for short durations at exceptionally high rates, access your private data on phone before aggressive and sometimes abusive follow-ups. Along with processing and subscription fees, the landed interest rate can be upwards of 80% per annum. There are stories of a loan of few thousands turning into a liability of lakhs, obviously beyond the reach of anyone who borrows small amounts, driving some even to suicide. Recently Google Play Store removed a number of such apps that offer loans with repayment of less than 60 days. It might contain the issue for the time being and regulations would come to plug some gaps, but the problem will keep coming back in new garbs. The RBI's cautionary notes are rarely accessible to the general public.

Loan recovery mechanisms are also evolving with technology. The e-commerce platforms titillate you to buy that smartphone that is definitely out of your reach, on easy EMIs. You buy and the reminders to pay keep nudging you every time you use your favourite function on the phone. If you are unable to pay on time, your phone can be totally blocked. The worst is when you end up buying a second-hand phone that was bought on EMI by the seller and end up paying the remaining EMIs. This is like a digital block on your life: you cannot get in touch with anyone, no transactions and no one is able to reach you. There are cases where the threat is to embarrass you by informing all your contacts about your pending loan.

> Instant loan apps offer unsecured loans for short durations at exceptionally high rates. Recently Google Play Store removed a number of such apps. But the problem will keep coming back. While there are at least mandatory declarations for mutual funds, there are almost none for the loans ecosystem

There are million advertisements and advertorials on all kinds of media and e-commerce platforms luring me to overspend and buy the luxuries I can probably do without. There is hardly anyone telling me to read the fine print, understand interest calculations and minimise risk. No regulatory body tells the lenders to specify the net landed price in bold that one will end up paying. Are loan recovery agents and digital threat tactics legal? We do not know. No one teaches us to calculate the cost of taking a loan, which besides the interest amount, also includes our peace of mind, respect and dignity.

We cannot do away with loans; they have been around since the earliest days of human civilisation. But we can definitely be far more judicious about them. Taking a loan for education or building an asset like home or for emergencies is understandable, but loans for luxuries help the lender more than the borrower. The real loser is the person at the bottom of the pyramid. The biggest defaulters continue to lead their luxurious lives outside the country as their lawyers engage with courts. No recovery agents or phone blocking software will ever harass them.

No NGO, to the best of my knowledge, is working on educating us to avoid building a life on loans. While there are mandatory declarations for mutual funds and other investments like equities, there are almost none for the loans ecosystem. Can the government make it mandatory to mention the total amount to be paid in lieu of loan in one figure in bold signed by both parties? Can they put an upper limit on annual interest rates that can be charged? Can these apps mandate an awareness test before sanctioning a loan? Can the terms and conditions be mandated in local languages as most documents exist in English as of now?

Most importantly, can schools teach children about the perils of life on perpetual loans? Can parents discourage their kids stepping into professional lives from taking too many loans too soon?

As my grandmother used to say, don't look at the thief when he is stealing, look at him when he is being beaten for robbery. Don't look at the momentary joy that a loan can give you, think of the misery it can bring on for a long term.

Terror unacceptable

The killing of more than 20 jawans by Maoists in Chhattisgarh is gruesome. Any form of terrorism is unacceptable and should be contained with an iron hand. The governments should take a relook at the plans and provide appropriate training to security forces.

Central forces assaulting people, asking them to vote for BJP: Didi

Mamata says frustrated over 'poor' turnout at Modi & Shah rallies, Oppn occupying booths

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday accused her arch-rival BJP of hatching conspiracy after experiencing "poor turnout" at its election rallies addressed by party heavyweights, including PM Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

She also claimed that central forces "assaulted" voters in several constituencies where polling was underway on Wednesday, "instructing" them to vote for the BJP. Banerjee said alleged that BJP forcibly occupied polling booths and attacked Trinamool Congress candidates.

"Their leaders from Delhi skipped several rallies citing excuses. The actual reason was the poor turnout at their rallies. After realising that people were not supporting them, the BJP is hatching a deep-rooted conspiracy. Central forces have been asked not to stop booth capturing," alleged Mamata at an election rally at Kalchini in north Bengal's Alipurduar, which had turned to be the BJP's stronghold in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections.

Shah had skipped a rally in Chinsurah rally in Hooghly district on Monday and flew back to Delhi following the Maoist attack in Chhattisgarh, said BJP sources said.

Last month, he didn't attend a rally in Jhargram, citing a technical snag in his chopper. Before that, BJP national president J P Nadda had also skipped a meeting in Jhargram.

"Out of three, they skipped two meetings in Junglemahal's Jhargram. Despite fielding a sitting MP, Locket Chatterjee, in Chinsurah, Shah had to skip the rally. This is basically because of the poor turnout of the crowd and our supremo is using it as a political tool," charged the Bengal CM.

She said her party's nominee in Arambagh, Sujata Mondal, was chased and hit on the head near a polling booth by saffron party workers. "BJP supporters inflicted serious injury on our Scheduled Caste candidate Sujata when she visited a booth. They also hit another candidate in Khanakul," she said.

Uluberia (WB): Four EVMs and a similar number of VVPATs were found at the house of a Trinamool Congress leader in West Bengal's Howrah district, following which a poll official was suspended, a senior officer said on Tuesday. The incident happened in Tulsiberia village in the Uluberia Uttar assembly segment, he said. The EVMs and VVPATs were seized and the officer suspended, the offical said.

PM calls for vote in large numbers

New Delhi: PM Narendra Modi on Tuesday urged people to vote in large numbers in the polls in Assam, Kerala, Puducherry, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal. "Elections are taking place in Assam, Kerala, Puducherry, Tamil Nadu and Bengal. I request the people in these places to vote in record numbers, particularly the young voters," the prime minister tweeted. Modi also tweeted in Bengali, Assamese, Tamil and Malayalam.

Assam deputy speaker quizzed, 5 cops suspended for firing at crowd

Silchar (Assam): Assam Assembly Deputy Speaker Aminul Haque Laskar was quizzed twice and five police personnel attached to him were suspended after they opened fire at public during second phase of polling, officials said Tuesday. At least three persons were injured in the firing by the body guards of Laskar on April 1 after clashes broke out between supporters of BJP and AIUDF inside the polling station at 463 Madhya Dhanehori LP School of Sonai constituency. Police sources said Laskar was interrogated twice for several hours during the last 48 hours and his statements have been recorded in front of a magistrate. Sitting MLA Laskar is having a direct fight with Karim Uddin Barbhuiya of the AIUDF on Sonai seat. When contacted, Cachar SP Bhanwar Lal Meena said all the police personnel attached to the deputy speaker have been removed from the duty with immediate effect in view of the ongoing probe. ENS

Mamata's minority votes slipping away, says Modi

KOLKATA: Reiterating the BJP's "mind game" strategy, portraying the West Bengal CM as an "already loser" before the Assembly election results are declared, PM Narendra Modi on Tuesday said Mamata Banerjee's appeal to Muslims to vote en bloc for the Trinamool Congress reflects fears that minority votes are slipping out of her hands.

Referring to Banerjee's criticism over the participation of the AIMIM and the Indian Secular Force (ISF) in the ongoing Bengal polls, Modi, addressing a rally in north Bengal's Cooch Behar, said: "Now, she is urging to stop split in the minority vote-bank. Didi, you are not proud that West Bengal is seeing over 80 per cent voter turnout. It means that you are losing. Didi, you have scored an own goal (like in football) in these elections. You have admitted the truth which is your appeasement politics. Didi, khela sesh (the game is over)."

In north Bengal, the BJP performed impressively in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections by bagging seven seats out of eight. The PM cited several examples which he claimed to be signs of Mamata's defeat.

Referring to Mamata's allegation of false voting in a Nandigram booth on April 1, Modi said: "Your act is a clear indication of your defeat in Nandigram."

The PM also coined a new slogan "Chalo Paltai" (let us make the change). "For last one decade of TMC's regime in Bengal, women, Dalits, farmers, tea workers and backward classes were subjected to injustice. But Didi, you were just a silent spectator. For this reason, today the voice is coming from every corner of Bengal- Chalo Paltai," said Modi.

Assuring the electorates north Bengal, Modi said he was overwhelmed with the presence of the BJP supporters at the venue. "I will return your support in form of development," he said. ENS

India getting job done on climate, lauds John Kerry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

US Special Envoy for Climate John Kerry, who is on a three-day trip to India, on Tuesday lauded India for "getting the job done on climate" and said it is a world leader already in deployment of renewable energy.

He also met Environment Minister Prakash Javadekar and discussed a range of issues, including climate finance, joint research and collaboration.

"India has an advantage that we didn't have in the US as we were developing. Not just benefits of decades of scientific and technical advancement, you also have US as your friend and partner. We're here to support you through this path of sustainable future," Kerry said.

On his meeting with Kerry, Javadekar tweeted: "We discussed a range of issues including #ClimateFinance, joint research and collaboration etc. Had an engaging and fruitful discussion with Mr. @JohnKerry, Special Presidential Envoy for Climate."

The US government said in a statement that the meeting will focus on consultations on increasing climate ambitions. Kerry is on the second leg of his tour ahead of the virtual climate summit on April 22 called by US President Joe Biden in which he has invited 40 world leaders, including PM Narendra Modi.

Kerry also called on Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman where the two leaders acknowledged India and the US' strong shared interests to combat climate change and also the need for enhanced climate finance, technology transfer and capacity building.

Police seek activist's help to free captured jawan

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

FOR the first time since the intense encounter on Saturday in which 22 CRPF personnel were killed by Maoists in Chhattisgarh's Bastar region, the ultras on Tuesday confirmed that missing CoBRA commando Rakeshwar Singh Manhas is in their captivity.

In a statement, released by CPI (Maoist) spokesperson Vikalp, the ultras demanded that the government appoint a mediator to secure the safe release of the abducted soldier. "After that, we will hand over the captured soldier to the police," the statement read. The Maoists have, however, not raised any formal demands for the release of the commando.

Senior security officials, on condition of anonymity, said the Chhattisgarh Police in Bastar has sought the support of activists, scribes, local villagers to secure the release. Sources said the talks will be led by a prominent local social worker.

"We are hopeful that the Maoists will hand over the soldier safe. This is perhaps the first-of-its-kind case of operational captivity that we are dealing with. In my memory, Maoists have never abducted a soldier in an operation before. They are keen on building a positive perception among people. We don't think they will harm him," an official said.

In May last year, Maoists had abducted police constable Santosh Kattam of Bijapur. He was kept in captivity for nearly a week before local journalists and villagers intervened and convinced Maoists to release him. In 2012, then collector of Sukma Alex Paul Menon was captured by Maoists and kept in captivity for 12 days, before being released to the security forces. An official at the MHA told this newspaper that for such situations, calls are made based on the prevailing circumstances. DGP Chhattisgarh DM Awasthi confirmed that the statement issued by the Maoists, "is an authentic document" and said that the "government is examining the proposal" put forward by the red extremists. On Sunday, this newspaper had reported that one constable, Manhas, a resident of Jammu, was alive but missing.

Ambush a fallout of tactical leadership in combat zone?

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

A shortfall of effective and prompt responsive leadership at the frontline seems to have led to tragic consequences in the virtual war zone where a joint party of troopers returning from the planned operation got trapped in the Maoist ambush resulting in the fatality of 22 personnel in Bijapur, south Bastar on Saturday.

The feedback received from ground zero of the Maoist attack might suggest lapses, but it equally reflects a "tactical lethargy".

There were reports about the troopers while returning had entered the village without cordoning it first. Questions also arise if the prerequisites of effective leadership and the firm mentoring of the troops during the field operation were well-coordinated on the ground.

The village should primarily be avoided while returning from the operation as the invisible network of Maoists consistently following the movement of forces, remains a known fact.

The jawans choice of the lower routes in the jungle topography been cited as against the rules and it further throws doubt on the command been followed when such a big operation been executed.

"There are lovely hillock ridgelines where the forces could have easily walked, maintained a suitable height that can be used as a navigational aid in the stronghold of Maoists. In the combat zone a good leadership command, which is a matter of vision and apt training, on the frontline assumes much significance for the forces", said Brigadier (Rtd) B K Ponwar, who has trained over 36,000 security personnel belonging to central and state forces.

India, Russia to deepen military, economic synergy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Tuesday met his Russian counterpart Sergey Lavrov where the leaders discussed bilateral ties, military and nuclear cooperation and the Afghanistan situation ahead of President Vladimir Putin's visit to India later this year for the New Delhi-Moscow annual summit.

A joint statement issued after the meeting said that connectivity issues, including the International North-South Transport Corridor and the Chennai-Vladivostok Maritime Corridor, were also discussed during the meeting.

Saying that bilateral cooperation between India and Russia have remained energetic and forward-looking, Jaishanakar said: "We assess positively our economic cooperation noting new opportunities in the Russian far east. We talked about the long-standing partnership in the nuclear space and defence sectors. We also found an appetite for greater investment in each other by both the countries. Russian support for our Gaganyaan programme has progressed for which deeply appreciate. Our defence requirement in the past year was expeditiously addressed."

On the contentious issue of the acquisition of S-400 missile systems from Russia, Jaishankar said there was no specific discussion on the issue. Lavrov, on the other hand, said it was the US that has threatened sanctions, and India and Russia were keen to deepen military cooperation.

"We didn't discuss statements from the USA. Instead, we confirmed that we are going to deepen our military cooperation. We have a governmental committee on military-technical cooperations that has its own plans," he said.

The US has threatened India with sanctions under the CAATSA if New Delhi acquires S-400 from Moscow.

The Afghanistan situation also was discussed, the external affairs minister said, adding that the developments in Kabul directly impact India's security. Jaishankar also said he shared India's viewpoint on the Indo-Pacific. The Quad — Australia, India, Japan and the US — has been a matter of concern for Russia with Moscow flaying the grouping as an attempt by the US to mark a footprint in the region.

'PRIORITY GROUPS DECIDED ON THE BASIS OF VULNERABILITY' ■ 'RAMPING UP HAS TO BE DONE IN A SCIENTIFIC MANNER' ■ 'EVEN WESTERN COUNTRIES HAVE CONDUCTED DRIVE IN PHASES'

Vaccine for all will take time: Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday rebuffed the demands made by some states to open up vaccination for more age groups, saying vaccine availability is "finite" and the aim is to protect those who are most vulnerable, and not to "administer to those who want it but to those who need it."

During a weekly press conference, Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan said that many people are asking why isn't the government opening up vaccination for all those above 18 years. He said that even Western countries have conducted the vaccination drive in phases.

"The basic aim is to reduce death through vaccination. The other aim is to protect your healthcare system. If healthcare workers, doctors, nurses, paramedics and others fall sick, who will work in hospitals? So the aim, for any country, is to protect those who are the most vulnerable. The aim is never to administer the vaccine to those who want it but to those who need it," Bhushan said.

NITI Aayog member (Health) Dr VK Paul also said that the narrative has to be seen in a scientific way. He said that priority groups have been decided who are vulnerable to mortality. "Because history will only remember how many deaths have taken place. Globally, vaccine is finite."

Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal and his Maharashtra counterpart Uddhav Thackeray on Monday requested Prime Minister Narendra Modi to relax the age limit for the vaccination. The IMA also wrote to Modi suggesting that vaccination be allowed for all people above the age of 18 years.

Negative test must or ₹1,000 fine in Maha

Mumbai: People involved in essential services either have to be vaccinated or carry Covid test result to work in Maharashtra. "If anyone is found violating the government norms, then he or she will be penalised ₹1,000," the state government said in its order.

Chouhan launches awareness campaign

Bhopal: Madhya Pradesh CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan launched a 24-hour Swasthya Agraha to appeal people to follow Covid appropriate behaviour. Chouhan chaired a Cabinet meeting from the venue and also held the daily COVID-19 situation review meeting through virtual tools.

'News channel can sensitise people'

The Ministry of Information and Broadcasting urged private news channels to raise awareness on vaccination of those who are eligible and on Covid appropriate behaviour. It issued an advisory to private TV news channels, seeking help to disseminate the message in public interest.

Govt advises staff who are 45 yrs & above to take jabs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Centre has asked its employees aged 45 and above to get vaccinated against the coronavirus to check the surge in Covid cases across the country.

"The government has been monitoring the situation very closely, and based on the strategy adopted for prioritising the groups for vaccination to contain the spread of COVID-19, currently, all persons of the age of 45 years and above can participate in the vaccination exercise," said the office memorandum issued on April 6.

All central government employees of the age of 45 years and above are advised to get themselves vaccinated, so as to effectively contain the spread of COVID-19. "They are further advised to continue to follow covid-appropriate behaviour, even after vaccination, by frequent washing of hands/sanitization, wearing a mask/face cover and observing social distancing etc," it said.

Besides, the Centre has decided that foreign training of bureaucrats will continue to be suspended until further orders. The Personnel Ministry had in June last year said that there won't be any foreign training during 2020-21 due to the outbreak of COVID-19.

Fearing lockdown-2, migrants return to Bihar packed in trains and buses

RAJESH THAKUR & SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Patna/Mumbai

TRAINS and buses from metros such as Mumbai, Pune, Surat, Chandigarh, and Delhi to Bihar's different districts are arriving packed with migrant workers from Bihar amid apprehension of fresh lockdown due to a surge in Covid wave

The highest number of people and workers are returning from Maharashtra, which is one of the most severely Covid-hit states. Mumbai is among the 10 districts in the country with the highest number of new Covid cases.

Sohan Kumar, 45, along with his wife Nirmala and two children returned to Darbhanga by a train on Sunday. Kumar was a labourer in a leather factory in Mumbai. It was the fear of lockdown again being imposed that forced him to return, Kumar conceded.

Bihar labour resource minister Jibesh Kumar acknowledged that the state government is aware of mass return of migrants from other states and cities especially those placed under night curfews or other facing restrictions in view of rising corona cases. Kumar said that arrangements were in place for testing of the returnees. "If required, the government will reopen all the quarantine centres for those returning from Mumbai, Pune and other cities."

Passengers rush to board a train amid coronavirus in Patna on Tuesday | PTI

In lockdown, all establishments are closed. So how can 20 people stay back in a small room for the entire day? This will be fatal for them. So, they are leaving Mumbai — Sanjay Nirupam, Congress leader

East Central Railway chief spokesperson Rajesh Kumar confirmed that that Bihar-bound trains from Mumbai, Pune, and other cities are arriving with full occupancies. "But we cannot confirm whether all those returning from other states are only workers or not."

Meanwhile, the Central Railway has decided to run additional special trains from Mumbai and Pune to Bihar's Darbhanga, Patna and Danapur as well as Gorakhpur in UP to clear the rush of passengers.

Back in Mumbai, Sanjay Nirpuam, former Congress city president, claimed over 15 to 20 migrant workers stay in a room. "In lockdown, all establishments are closed. So how can 20 people stay back in a small room for the entire day? This will be fatal for them. So, they are leaving Mumbai. It will not only cripple the economy of Mumbai but badly affect workers too."

A police convoy arrives in Ropar on Tuesday for shifting gangster-turned-politician Mukhtar Ansari from a jail in Punjab to Uttar Pradesh | PTI

UP gets custody of Ansari, upgrade in Banda jail security

NAMITA BAJPAI & HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh/Lucknow

BAHUJAN Samaj Party (BSP) legislator Mukhtar Ansari was handed over to the Uttar Pradesh Police by its Punjab counterparts for which an unprecedented security blanket was thrown in and around Banda jail where he would be lodged.

The UP police convoy left for Banda around 2.15 PM. Before Ansari was handed over a team of doctors from Ropar conducted all his medical tests. The police contingent is expected to reach Uttar Pradesh's Banda jail by Wednesday morning.

The UP police arrived in Punjab in the wee hours on Tuesday to take Ansari into custody from Ropar jail. An ambulance also arrived at Rupnagar police station to take him to Banda. As per sources, a squad of trained commandos of the Punjab police accompanied Ansari for his safety.

Hotels and guest houses around the Banda prison are being thoroughly checked while the city outpost in-charge was instructed to carry out verification of visitors staying in hotels, guests houses.

As per the police sources, Ansari family's acquaintance with whom the family had been staying earlier in Khyampar when the mafia don was incarcerated in Banda jail before being taken by the Punjab police in 2019, were also approached.

Threat to his life in UP: Ansari's wife

Mukhtar Ansari's wife moved the Supreme Court seeking directions to UP authorities to ensure that her husband's life is 'protected' including from encounter and he can participate in free and fair trial in the state. The plea alleged there is a 'genuine, persistent and grave threat' to Ansari's life in UP and there are 'very high chances' that he will be eliminated if adequate protection or safeguards towards his life are not directed by the court.

The ambulance that was stationed outside the Banda prison on Monday was missing on Tuesday. It has reportedly been reserved for gangster during his stay in Banda jail.

In a letter to the Additional Chief Secretary (Home) of UP, the Punjab Home department had asked the Yogi Adityanath government to take Ansari's custody by April 8. Ansari had been lodged in Ropar jail in Punjab in connection with an extortion since January 2019.

The BSP MLA faces over 50 cases in UP and other places and fifteen of them are in the trial stage. Earlier the Supreme Court had directed Punjab to handover Ansari to UP by April 8, saying it was being denied on trivial grounds under the guise of medical issues.

Anil Deshmukh moves SC to stall order on CBI investigation

NEW DELHI: NCP leader Anil Deshmukh and the Maharashtra government on Tuesday moved the Supreme Court against the Bombay High Court's order sanctioning probe against him.

Bombay-based lawyer Jayshree Patil, on whose criminal writ petition the high court had ordered the CBI probe, had also filed a caveat in the top court seeking to be heard before any order is passed in the matter.

Later, CBI registered preliminary enquiry to investigate allegations against Deshmukh as ordered by the Bombay HC.

In its judgment, the high court had said fortmer Mumbai police commissioner Param Bir Singh's allegations against Deshmukh had put at stake the citizen's faith in the police. Such allegations against the state home minister could not be left unattended, and were required to be probed into, if prima facie, they made a case of a cognisable offence, it said. ENS

KIN WANTS GOVT TO DECLARE MISSING JAWAN A MARTYR

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE family of missing army man Shakir Manzoor Wagay from Shopian in south Kashmir, who was abducted by militants in August 2 last year, is demanding he be declared a martyr.

Manzoor Ahmad Wagay and his younger son Shaan have been tirelessly searching for Shakir's body for the last eight months. Shakir, a 24-year-old soldier of Territorial Army, was abducted near his residence at Reshipora while he was driving his vehicle to a nearby army camp where he was posted. Shakir's burnt car was found in Kulgam district the next day. A week later, his family recovered his blood-stained clothes in a nearby orchard.

Security forces arrested some militants including Lashkar-e-Mustafa chief Hidayatullah Malik, who was arrested recently. They said that Hidayatullah told them that Shakir was killed

Shan, brother of missing jawan

"Shakir should be declared dead and martyred by the army and the government. It has been over eight months since he was abducted by militants," Shaan told TNIE. The army and the police are telling that militants had killed Shakir, he added.

"Security forces arrested some militants including Lashkar-e-Mustafa chief Hidayatullah Malik, who was arrested recently. They said that Hidayatullah told them that Shakir was killed and militants have dumped his body at an undisclosed place."

"We want the government and army to declare him a martyr so that we could offer funeral prayers in absentia for him and stop our search," Shaan added.

U'khand HC summons officer to explain forest fires

Wildfires have engulfed total 1,793.48 hectares of forest area this year | EXPRESS

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand High Court took suo moto cognizance of raging forest fires in the state and directed the forest department chief to be present today for explaining the situation.

Dushyant Mainali, a practising advocate in the HC, said he informed the court about the situation along with laxaties of authorities and the government.

"The court took the matter seriously and directed the principal chief conservator of forests to be present before the court on Wednesday."

Mainali had mentioned the matter before the division bench comprising Chief Justice R S Chauhan and Justice Alok Verma on Monday.

The lawyer also submitted media reports and documents which the bench took on record. He informed the bench that the government and the officials treat the matter as seasonal phenomenon rather than working around the year to prevent the disaster.

"The court remarked that it was the state's detachment from community and attachment to technique which is bound to result in failure when it comes to dealing with wildfires," said Mainali.

Wildfires have engulfed total 1,793.48 hectares forest area in 1,288 incidents this year in Uttarakhand. Four people have been killed while two injured, so far.

Meanwhile, two Mi-17 helicopters failed to conduct sorties on Tuesday to douse forest fires due to poor visibility in the hill state.

Web portal for students at Kota coaching centres

The state government has decided to create an online register of students heading to Kota for coaching classes. The register aims to address issues related to coaching, meals and housing. This will also ensure essential arrangements for students in situations like the Covid-19 pandemic. According to a proposal of the Department of Information Technology and Communication, a student database will be prepared to create a web portal and a mobile app with students' info, details of hostels and PGs and the various coaching centres in Kota. The administration will also use these apps in case of any emergencies.

Raj to promote home stay, train 6,000 tourist guides

The Gehlot government has released its new tourism policy to reposition Rajasthan as a preferred tourism destination for both domestic as well as international tourists. The Rajasthan Tourism Policy-2020 aims to offer tourists a high-quality experience. The Department of Tourism plans to take special steps to improve accommodation facilities in the state. Under this, a new 'Guest House' scheme will be launched in urban areas to promote establishments offering 5 to 20 rooms. Home stays will be encouraged and a scheme for their promotion, grading and listing will be formulated to provide low-cost stays for tourists. In addition, the Rajasthan government has also given its nod to the selection, training and licensing of 6,000 new tourist guides, paving the way for their self-employment.

Rajasthan Day showcases art and culture

Rajasthan celebrated its 72nd birthday on March 30 with low-key celebrations due to the Covid-19 situation. However, two exhibitions showcasing the heritage of the state were special attractions to mark the 'Rajasthan Day.' The two events — Sono Rajasthan and Vihangam — depicted different aspects of art and culture of the state. Launching the exhibitions, Mugdha Sinha, director general of JKK, said, "Art and culture is central to the identity of Rajasthan. We are trying to do our best to preserve and promote this heritage."

Pilot-Shekhawat hug churns rumour mills

Apart from the bitter phone-tapping row, Rajasthan is witnessing a charged political atmosphere due to the upcoming Assembly bypolls to three seats. Amid this, a photograph of former deputy CM Sachin Pilot and Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat at Udaipur Airport has gone viral. In this picture, the two leaders are seen not only greeting but also embracing each other warmly. Besides surprising officials and workers of both the parties present there, the picture has created much speculation in the political circles. It may be recalled that Shekhawat was a key figure during the political crisis sparked by Pilot's revolt against CM Ashok Gehlot last year.

NETANYAHU GETS 1ST CRACK AT GOVT AS ISRAEL DENIES MAJORITY

With 52 seats in house of 120, the embattled PM needs to cobble together a majority of 61

JERUSALEM

ISRAEL'S president handed Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu the difficult task on Tuesday of trying to form a government from the country's splintered parliament, giving the embattled leader a chance to prolong his lengthy term in office while he stands trial on corruption charges.

In his announcement, President Reuven Rivlin acknowledged that no party leader had the necessary support to form a majority coalition in the 120-seat Knesset. He also noted that many believe Netanyahu is unfit to serve as prime minister in light of his legal problems.

Nonetheless, Rivlin said that there was nothing in the law preventing Netanyahu from holding that office. After consulting with the 13 parties in the newly elected parliament, Rivlin said that Netanyahu had the best chance of any candidate of forming a new government.

With that, Rivlin nudged forward the twin dramas over the country's future and Netanyahu's fate, giving Israel's longest-serving premier a fresh chance to try to salvage his career. Netanyahu now has up to six weeks to try to cobble together a coalition. If he fails, Rivlin could give another party leader the opportunity to try to form a government — or the country could be plunged into an unprecedented fifth election in just over two years. Netanyahu has the most support — 52 seats — in Israel's Knesset. But that is still short of a 61 seats needed for a majority. He is likely to use his powers of persuasion to try to lure a number of opponents, including close former aides who have vowed never to serve under him again, with generous offers of powerful government ministries or legislative committees.

In order to secure a majority, Netanyahu would likely require the support of a small Arab Islamist party, and one of his partners, the Religious Zionists, have an openly racist platform and say they will not serve in a government with Arab partners.

"The chances of Netanyahu to form a government are quite low," said Yohan Plesner, president of the Israel Democracy Institute, a think tank.

Protesters giving a three-finger salute after a massive bleeding dye strike that painted Yangon streets red | AFP

Shadow govt nets $10 mn as protesters paint Yangon red

YANGON

MYANMAR activists daubed roadways with red paint Tuesday to protest against the junta's bloody crackdown on protests, as an online fundraising drive to support the movement neared the $10 million mark.

On Tuesday, in the commercial capital Yangon, people smeared red paint and handprints on bus stops and pavements in protest at the military's violence.

The so-called "bleeding dye strike" is the latest creative method thought up by protestors to voice opposition without risking being shot or arrested by demonstrating in person.

One slogan painted on a bus stop said the military was being misused to protect junta chief Min Aung Hlaing, and urged soldiers not to shoot civilians. In the city of Hpa-an in eastern Karen state, youths sprayed red paint on the road, giving the three-fingered salute borrowed from the "Hunger Games" books and films that has become symbolic of the movement.

Meanwhile an online fundraising push by a group of ousted MPs from Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy (NLD) is nearing $10 million. The Committee for Representing Pyidaungsu Hluttaw (CRPH) — the Burmese word for parliament — says the money will be used to "uproot the military dictatorship" and restore democracy.

More than 2,700 people have been arrested since the coup, according to local monitoring group Assistance Association for Political Prisoners.

First Arab nuclear reactor operationalised in the UAE

ABU DHABI

THE UAE announced on Tuesday that its Barakah nuclear power plant started commercial operations in a first for the Arab world. "The UAE has entered a landmark phase today," tweeted Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al-Maktoum, the Emirates' vice president and prime minister.

"The first megawatt from the first Arab nuclear plant has entered the national power grid," said Sheikh Mohammed, who is also the ruler of Dubai. Abu Dhabi Crown Prince Sheikh Mohammed bin Zayed Al-Nahyan too lauded the "historic milestone".

"The start of commercial operations at the Barakah nuclear energy plant is a historic milestone for the UAE that significantly enhances the sustainability of our entire power sector," he tweeted. The UAE, which is made up of seven emirates, including the capital Abu Dhabi and freewheeling Dubai, is the fourth largest oil producer in the OPEC cartel.

The country was built on oil, but is spending billions to develop enough renewable energy to cover half of its needs by 2050. When fully operational, the four reactors of the Barakah plant will generate 5,600 megawatts, around 25 percent of the UAE's electricity needs. The plant started up in August when authorities pushed the button on the first of four reactors.

Ireland takes FB to task over data leak

Dublin : Ireland's data protection watchdog is demanding answers from Facebook over the release of records on 533 million people that appeared to stem from the social media site, a spokesman said on Tuesday. A spokesman for Ireland's Data Protection Commission (DPC) — which regulates Facebook in the EU — said "a dataset, appearing to be sourced from Facebook, has appeared on a hacking website this weekend." The DPC said similar datasets were previously shared in 2018 and 2019 sourced from a "vulnerability" in Facebook's "phone lookup functionality" which was fixed in April 2018.

Iran nuclear deal talks successful, says Russia as US nuances stance

VIENNA

A Russian diplomat participating in talks to save the Iran nuclear deal said on Tuesday's meeting had been "successful," though their salvage efforts will take time. "The Joint Commission meeting of JCPOA was successful... The restoration of JCPOA will not happen immediately. It will take some time. How long? Nobody knows," Mikhail Ulyanov, Russia's Vienna-based envoy to international organisations, wrote on Twitter, referring to the pact by its acronym.

Talks aimed at salvaging the deal between Iran and world powers are taking place in Austria's capital, with the US joining indirectly for the first time since President Joe Biden's arrival in the White House. The US withdrew from the pact in 2018.

US President Joe Biden has said he is ready to reverse the decision of his predecessor Donald Trump and return to the 2015 agreement, which was supposed to ensure that Iran never developed a military nuclear programme. Iran on Tuesday had welcomed "promising" recent comments by US officials explicitly suggesting that the United States lift sanctions in order to return to the 2015 nuclear deal. "We find this position realistic and promising. It could be the start of correcting the bad process that had taken diplomacy to a dead end," government spokesman Ali Rabiei told journalists in Tehran. But it stuck to its demand for an end to crippling sanctions imposed by Trump and refused to meet US negotiators at the latest talks, meaning European players will act as intermediaries.

US hedge fund firesale bled Credit Suisse of $5 bn

ZURICH

CREDIT Suisse on Tuesday said it had taken a $4.7 billion hit from its links to troubled hedge fund Archegos Capital Management, cut dividends and announced the departure of two senior executives.

Switzerland's second-biggest bank and Japan's Nomura warned last month that they could face significant losses due to their exposure to a US hedge fund forced to liquidate its holdings.

"The significant loss in our prime services business relating to the failure of a US-based hedge fund is unacceptable," chief executive Thomas Gottstein said in statement on Tuesday.

Bloomberg News reported last month that the troubled fund was little-known Archegos Capital Management, which sold at least $20 billion in stocks from US media and Chinese companies as it sought to cover its obligations to its lenders.

Credit Suisse said its pre-tax loss of 900 million Swiss francs in the first three months of the year includes 4.4 billion Swiss francs ($4.7 billion, 3.9 billion euros) related to "the failure by a US-based hedge fund to meet its margin commitments as we announced on March 29".

Trading on margin is the practice of using borrowed funds to invest in financial assets such as stocks. It can be very profitable for borrowers as they are often only required to put down a small percentage in cash while the stocks serve as collateral for the lender.

But large shifts in share prices can force borrowers to put up more money to meet their margin commitments, or sell the shares and potentially lose more than their investment and default on their loan.

Andreas Venditti, an analyst with the Zurich financial services company Vontobel, said the 4.4 billion Swiss franc hit was "at the higher end of the range" but had been limited thanks to "very strong operating results".

India's GDP to grow 12.5% this fiscal year: IMF

But the expected high growth rate is on a low base and will likely slow to 6.9% in FY23

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

THE IMF on Tuesday revised upwards India's real GDP growth projection to 12.5 per cent in FY22 as against the 11.5 per cent estimated in January.

However, the anticipated high double-digit growth on a low base will likely moderate to 6.9 per cent in FY23. This is higher than the pre-pandemic growth rate of 4 per cent in FY20 and 6.5 per cent in FY19.

In its latest World Economic Outlook, the IMF retained its forecast unchanged for FY21 and the Indian economy may contract by 8 per cent as expected. Still, this is a larger contraction than the government's own projections, with the National Statistics Office pegging a contraction at 7.7 per cent.

In the medium term, real GDP will likely grow at an average of 6.5 per cent up to FY27, but this is lower than the 7.9 per cent seen during 2003-2012. It's also lower than the projected growth rate of Bangladesh, which stands at 7.2 per cent and is perhaps the world's fastest for the period, being even higher than China's 4.9 per cent. For 2021, projections for emerging and developing Asia have also been revised upwards by 0.6 per cent due to a stronger recovery after lockdowns were eased in large countries like India.

The IMF expects India's headline inflation to be target-bound at 4.9 per cent this fiscal and 4.1 per cent next fiscal, which means nominal GDP growth may well be in the double-digits after all.

As for the world's output, the IMF is projecting a stronger recovery in 2021 and 2022 and has revised upwards its projections for 2021 to 6 per cent and 4.4 per cent for FY22, following a contraction of 3.3 per cent in 2020—1.1 per cent smaller than its projections last October—reflecting the higher-than expected growth in the second half of 2020. In all, global growth is expected to moderate to 3.3 per cent over the medium-term.

Among advanced economies, the US is expected to surpass its pre-Covid GDP level this year, while many others will return to their pre-Covid levels only in 2022. Similarly, among emerging market and developing economies, China had already returned to pre-Covid GDP in 2020, whereas many others are not expected to do so until well into 2023, notes Gita Gopinath, Chief Economist, IMF.

Nonetheless, the outlook presents daunting challenges related to divergences in the speed of recovery, both across and within countries, and the potential for persistent economic damage from the crisis.

The divergent recovery paths are likely to create significantly wider gaps in living standards between developing countries and others, compared to pre-pandemic expectations. The income losses are believed to have reversed gains in poverty reduction, with an additional 95 million expected to have entered the rank of the extreme poor in 2020, while the number of undernourished has grown by 80 million.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FOREIGN portfolio investors (FPI) poured in a record ₹2.74 lakh crore into India during the prevous fiscal year 2020-21, surpassing the previous record set during FY13.

"Financial Year (FY) 2020-21 witnessed strong Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI) inflows into the Indian equity markets of ₹2,74,034 crore, thus, reflecting steadfast confidence of foreign investors in the fundamentals of the Indian Economy," the Union finance ministry said in a statement on Tuesday. The previous best for FPI inflows in a financial year had come in FY13, when overseas investors had pumped in ₹1.4 lakh crore. During FY20, foreign portfolio investors had been net sellers, pulling out ₹27,528 crore.

According to the ministry, the sharp rise in inflows last fiscal year were due the government's policy initiatives and economic recovery.

"The robust FPI flows came on the back of faster-than-expected economic recovery supported by multiple tranches of innovatively designed stimulus packages. The government and regulators had also undertaken major policy initiatives directed at improving ease of access and investment climate for FPIs in the recent past," the ministry statement said.

It further added that the increase in aggregate FPI investment limit in Indian companies from 24 per cent to the sectoral cap has been a catalyst for the increase in the weightage of Indian securities in major equity indices, "thus mobilising massive equity inflows, both passive and active, into Indian capital markets".

The government has said the easing of investment rules for FPIs including simplification and rationalisation of the FPI regulatory regime, operationalisation of the online Common Application Form for registration with Sebi, allotment of PAN, and opening of bank and demat has also helped.

Jio to acquire some of Bharti Airtel's spectrum resources for ₹1,497 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN the first such deal between telecom rivals Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel, an agreement has been signed under which the Mukesh Ambani-owned firm will acquire the 'right to use' some of Airtel's spectrum resources in the Andhra Pradesh, Delhi, and Mumbai telecom circles.

According to a statement from the companies, the agreement will see Jio acquire a portion of spectrum in the 800 MHz band in these circles at an aggregate value of ₹1,497 crore. Airtel will receive a consideration of ₹1,037.6 crore from Jio for the proposed transfer, while Jio will also assume future liabilities of ₹459 crore relating to the spectrum, Bharti Airtel's statement said.

Jio added that it has now further strengthened its network capacity given the enhanced spectrum footprint—especially contiguous spectrum—and superior infrastructure deployed. Post the trading agreement, Jio will have 2X15 MHz of spectrum in the 800 MHz band in the Mumbai circle and 2X10 MHz of spectrum in the 800 MHz band in the Andhra Pradesh and Delhi circles.

Lower bands such as the 800 MHz and 900 MHz are better at ensuring good indoor coverage while higher bands like 2300 MHz have a good carrying capacity, experts note.

"The sale of the 800 MHz blocks in these three circles has enabled us to unlock value from the spectrum that was unutilised. This is aligned to our overall network strategy," Gopal Vittal, MD and CEO (India and South Asia), Bharti Airtel said. According to news agency reports, the spectrum sold by Airtel had found its way to the telco after the Tata Teleservices merger.

The deal also comes after the recent spectrum auctions held in March, when winning bids worth ₹77,800 crore were made for 855.6 MHz of spectrum.

ACER SEES GLOBAL CHIP SHORTAGE EASING GRADUALLY

A global shortage of chips for mid-end consumer products is starting to ease and will be much better in the second half of the year, according to Acer. From delayed car deliveries to a supply shortfall in home appliances to costlier smart phones, businesses and consumers are facing the brunt of an unprecedented shortage in semiconductor microchips. Originally concentrated in the auto industry, the shortage has now spread to a range of other consumer electronics, including smartphones, refrigerators, and microwaves. The problem first became apparent in Q4 last year, and the supply chain has jumped into action as suppliers worked to address the situation. Better supplies are expected in Q2 than Q1 of this year, and Acer believes the situation will get better. The shortage stems from a confluence of factors as carmakers that shut plants during the Covid-19 pandemic last year, compete against the sprawling consumer electronics industry for chip supplies.

VIETNAM

COUNTRY LIFTS BAN ON TRANSIT BY BOEING PLANES

Vietnam has allowed Boeing 737 Max planes to transit the country after they were suspended in 2019 over safety concerns, as per news reports. The Vietnamese government has reportedly approved a proposal from the aviation authority following reports on safety and the resumption of the operations of the aircraft elsewhere in the world. The Civil Aviation Authority of Vietnam (CAAV) in March 2019 suspended issuing licenses to 737 Max planes until the cause for the Ethiopian crash was determined. The ministry has told CAAV to keep monitoring the situation and updating information from the aviation authorities of other countries before fully allowing the operations of the aircraft. The US lifted its own ban on the 737 Max last November, followed by Brazil and Canada.

JAPAN

SOFT HOUSEHOLD SPENDS SIGNAL PROLONGED STRESS

Japan's household spending dropped for a third straight month in February, data showed, as emergency curbs to prevent the spread of the coronavirus hurt consumption and raised the risk of a prolonged economic recovery. Household spending dropped 6.6 per cent in February over last year, after a 6.1 per cent decline in January. The major areas which saw a downturn in spending include travel package tours, eating out, and transportation as the pandemic prompted people to change their spending behaviour. However, monthly data showed spending up by 2.4 per cent, rebounding from a 7.3 per cent fall in January. Separate data on wages reinforced the signs of a challenging growth outlook as policymakers strive to mitigate the consumer and business impact of the health crisis. Analysts are also forecasting an economic contraction in Q1 as a state of emergency in Tokyo and some other areas to contain a renewed spike in coronavirus cases pressures businesses, especiallly the service sector such as restaurants and hotels.

Fintech start-up Cred raises $215 mn, achieves unicorn status

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BENGALURU-based fintech start-up CRED has raised $215 million in its Series D funding round at a post-money valuation of $2.2 billion. With this, the Kunal Shah-founded firm has now become the sixth firm to enter the coveted unicorn club in 2021. Meesho, Digit, Innovaccer, Infra.Market, and NBFC Five Star Business Finance make up the other five.

CRED's Series D funding round was led by new investor Falcon Edge Capital and existing investor Coatue Management LLP. Existing investors DST Global, RTP Global, Tiger Global, Greenoaks Capital, Dragoneer Investment Group, and Sofina also participated in the round.

"With the credit card category in India expanding rapidly, we have a massive opportunity to shape responsible behaviour, imagine new use cases, and create a rewarding platform for members," CRED Founder Kunal Shah said in a statement.

He added, "Our growth in the past year has demonstrated the potential value of the high-trust, low-friction platform the CRED team has been building, and we are delighted to share the value created with investors, team members, as well as partners and the CRED community."

According to reports, CRED has projected a 208-fold growth in its operating revenues to ₹108 crore for the fiscal year just ended (FY21). Its operating expenses are estimated to have grown by about 79 per cent to ₹677 crore in FY21 while its annual losses are slated to be around ₹562 crore in FY21 compared to ₹363.2 crore in FY20.

Launched in 2018, CRED is a members-only credit card bill payment platform that rewards its members for clearing their credit card bills on time.

Cred, which is operated by Dreamplug Technologies, has raised $442 million in funding to date. "Cred will also offer its team another ESOP buyback opportunity, with a cumulative value of $5 million," Cred said.

Domestic air passenger traffic at 10-year low

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S domestic air passenger traffic dived to a 10-year low during the previous financial year ended March 2021 at an estimated 53.4 million. The impact of the pandemic and subsequent lockdowns had effectively removed two months of flight operations last summer.

According to ratings agency ICRA, one has to go back all the way to financial year 2010-11 for a lower traffic figure of 53.8 million passengers on local air routes. Domestic passenger traffic in March 2021 alone has been estimated at around 77-78 lakh, a marginal decline of about 1 per cent over February during which airlines had flown around 78.30 lakh passengers.

"For FY21 (May 25, 2020 till March 31, 2021), domestic passenger traffic has been pegged at around 53.4 million, a year-on-year decline of about 62 per cent over the fiscal ended March 31, 2020, in line with ICRA's estimates," the report said. ICRA also noted that the recent spike in cases poses a crucial challenge for the sector's recovery.

Meanwhile local airlines' capacity on offer during March 2021 was around 2 per cent higher at around 71,300 departures compared to 69,910 departures the previous year.

During the month, average daily departures were around 2,300, higher than the average daily departures of 2,255 in March 2020, "owing to the cessation of domestic travel for the last seven days of the month during the previous fiscal year, and marginally higher than around 2,296 in February this year," said Kinjal Shah, Vice President ICRA.

Relief for China's ByteDance in tax evasion case

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CHINESE internet company ByteDance, the parent firm of TikTok, received some relief from the Bombay High Court on Tuesday. The court permitted the company to operate its Indian bank accounts, that had been frozen by the Goods and Services Tax (GST) authorities over alleged tax evasion, after depositing a sum of ₹78.91 crore in a state-run bank—the quantum of tax claimed.

A bench of Justices SP Deshmukh and Abhay Ahuja ruled that ByteDance could operate its Indian accounts after it deposited the money towards the demand raised by GST authorities in any state-run bank.

The Indian indirect tax department has held that ByteDance evaded taxes and had not paid its GST dues in full, a charge denied by the Chinese firm. It's popular social video app TikTok had been banned in India last year.

ByteDance had gone to the courts last month denying all allegations and seeking various reliefs, including challenging the provisional attachment order freezing its bank accounts in India. Its advocates argued that since its bank accounts had been frozen, the company had been unable to pay salaries to its Indian staff

India Inc must split up CMD role, deadline won't be extended: Sebi

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has asked Indian companies to work towards separating the roles of chairperson and managing director (MD) before April 22, adding that the deadline will not be extended further.

"Listed entities were initially required to separate the roles of chairperson and MD/CEO from April 1, 2020 onwards. However, based on industry representations, an additional time period of two years was given for compliance. The regulation will now be applicable to the top 500 listed entities by market capitalization, with effect from April 1, 2022. As at the end of December 2020, only 53 per cent of the top 500 listed entities had complied with this provision. I urge the eligible listed entities to be prepared for this change in advance of the deadline," said Sebi chairman Ajay Tyagi on Tuesday at CII's Corporate Governance Summit.

He argued that the rule was aimed at improving corporate governance. "The objective is to provide a better and more balanced governance structure by enabling more effective supervision of the management. Separation of the roles will reduce excessive concentration of authority in a single individual," he said.

Citing global examples, Tyagi added that other countries have also implemented a similar rule. "Globally too, the needle seems to be moving more towards the separation... In the UK and Australia, the debate has tilted in favour of separating the two posts. Germany and Netherlands have a two-tier board structure, separating the roles of board and management," he said.

Triumph launches its least expensive model in India at ₹6.95 lakh

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BRITISH premium motorcycle brand Triumph on Tuesday launched one of its most affordable bikes in India—the Trident 660—with a price tag of ₹6.95 lakh (ex-showroom). Even before the price announcement, over 125 customers had booked the bike, claimed Triumph.

Shoeb Farooq, Business Head, Triumph Motorcycles India said, "Trident 660 marks our entry into the premium middleweight roadster category in India. The Trident is the latest addition to Triumph's roadster portfolio in India, taking the count to four: Street Triple RS, Street Triple R, The Speed Triple 1200RS, and the Trident 660. With the Trident, Triumph now offers 16 motorcycles in India."

He added: "With the slew of motorcycles we've launched this year and one's that are in the pipeline, we're confident that Triumph will further strengthen its already strong position in the premium motorcycle industry in India."

The Trident 660 is fitted to a 660cc engine that gives a peak power output of 81PS@10,250 rpm and a torque of 64 Nm@6250rpm. Features wise, it comes loaded with Bluetooth connectivity, turn-by-turn navigation, ride by wire, switch cube GoPro control, and more than 45 accessories for riders to customize, Triumph said. The Trident will be available in India in four colour options and comes with a 2 year unlimited mileage warranty and 16,000 km service interval.

In the Indian market, Trident will compete against the likes of Kawasaki Z650 and the recently launched Honda CB650R. Bajaj Auto and Triumph Motorcycles entered into a partnership in January 2020 to develop motorcycles ranging from 200cc to 750cc. The first model to roll out under this joint venture will be a 200cc motorcycle, priced under ₹2 lakh. When launched, it will compete directly against the segment leader Royal Enfield.

Bubble trouble for Mumbai

Defending champs' talent scout More tests Covid +ve, contacts isolated, training cancelled

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

WITH just two days to go, the Indian Premier League received its biggest scare. Former India player and chairman of selectors Kiran More, Mumbai Indians' talent scout and wicketkeeping coach, has tested positive for Covid-19. The development is the last thing the IPL would have hoped for as it is the first positive case recorded inside the bio-secure bubble, raising concerns about the safety. Worrying bit would be the persons who would have come in contact with him.

It is not clear how many came in close contact with More, but since he took part in training sessions, the number could be on the higher side. According to photos shared by the franchise, he even attended indoor team sessions.

Defending champions Mumbai are scheduled to play the opening match on April 9 at the MA Chidambaram Stadium against Royal Challengers Bangalore. As things stand, there isn't any indication that this match will be postponed, but any decision will be taken only on Wednesday following a fresh round of RT-PCR tests.

"More is currently asymptomatic and has been isolated. Mumbai Indians and Kiran More have followed all the BCCI health guidelines. The MI medical team will continue to monitor Mr. More's health and abide by the BCCI protocols," the franchise said in a statement.

It is understood that More tested positive in a test taken on Monday. After having their initial pre-season camp at the Jio Stadium in Mumbai, the five-time champions arrived in Chennai on March 31.

They happen to be the only team staying at a private resort on East Coast Road, which is out of bounds for public. Even for practice sessions, they have been using SSN College Grounds — in the outskirts of Chennai — which is part of the bio-bubble. MI have also been conducting RT-PCR tests every day since arriving in the city.

Team management is concerned as to how More contracted the virus as he has been in a bio-secure environment even before he flew down to Chennai. He was part of their initial camp after going through a mandatory quarantine period as mandated by the BCCI.

It is understood that the BCCI's medical team has already traced all those who came in contact with More in the past 48 hours. They have been placed under isolation as per BCCI's protocols and will be under isolation for six days in a separate facility and will be subjected to three RT-PCR tests during the period. They be allowed to enter the bubble again if they test negative.

TEAM WATCH | CHENNAI SUPER KINGS | IPL 2 DAYS TO GO

One of the biggest shocks of the 2020 edition was the performance of three-time champions Chennai Super Kings. For a team that qualified for the play-offs in every season prior to the last edition, they finished a disappointing seventh. Many players including their talismanic captain MS Dhoni had an underwhelming campaign but the management retained most of the squad ahead of the upcoming tournament. There were some interesting additions to the squad as well in Moeen Ali, Krishnappa Gowtham and Robin Uthappa all being roped in. Due to the success of the franchise in the competition, they will go into the 2021 edition as one of the favourites thanks to the experience of the players and led by the wily old Dhoni.

STRENGTHS

The experience that the team has within their ranks. Right from MS Dhoni to Faf du Plessis and Dwayne Bravo to Suresh Raina, Ravindra Jadeja and Ambati Rayudu with plenty of IPL experience. They are proven match winners who can be the difference in close encounters as they have shown countless times. Chennai have always relied on their experienced campaigners and they will once again turn to these seasoned pros to snatch the title from Mumbai Indians. While Dhoni was rusty and didn't make much of an impact in the last edition, the veteran has one of the sharpest brains in world cricket and he has the ability to get the best out of his resources.

WEAKNESSES

While experience can be a strength, lack of match practice and fitness can be an issue for a majority of their players and the other side of the coin. A lot of their key players might lack match fitness as they are not involved in international cricket on a regular basis. Dhoni's struggles last season after coming into the tournament without any playing time was evidence of that. The likes of Suresh Raina and Ambati Rayudu also haven't played much cricket and their form and fitness will be the question needing to be addressed.

THREATS

All eyes will be on Dhoni and how he steers the ship. At 39, Dhoni is not getting any younger despite all the success he has brought to the franchise. Everything from his batting to his captaincy and team selection will be under the spotlight as Chennai would look to get back into the play-off spots again. With three titles and eight final appearances, expectations are always high. Dhoni has been a major factor for all those successes but another disappointing campaign would put more pressure on an ageing warhorse with a glorious past.

SQUAD

MS Dhoni (c & wk), Suresh Raina, Narayan Jagadeesan, Ruturaj Gaikwad, KM Asif, Karn Sharma, Ambati Rayudu, Deepak Chahar, Faf du Plessis, Shardul Thakur, Mitchell Santner, Dwayne Bravo, Lungi Ngidi, Sam Curran, Ravindra Jadeja, Imran Tahir, Robin Uthappa, Moeen Ali, K Gowtham, Cheteshwar Pujara, M.Harisankar Reddy, K.Bhagath Varma, C Hari Nishaanth, R Sai Kishore.

20-member team for world relays

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

THE Athletics Federation of India named a 20-strong squad for the upcoming World Relays in Silesia, Poland. The squad is mostly on expected lines but it has reemphasised that Hima Das, a 400m junior world champion in 2019, is not fit enough to be in the 400m senior relay squad. However, she figures in the 4x100m squad.

The importance of this meet, one of the first international meets amid the pandemic for a majority of India's athletics squad, cannot be understated. The 400m relay squad has been talked up for the last few years but both the men's and women's teams are yet to qualify. In fact, among all the relay teams, only the mixed 4x400 have booked their lot thus far.

A good time in Poland can give the team a Tokyo berth provided they are within the top eight when the ranking cut off is applied in the last week of June. AFI president Adille Sumariwalla said that they tried different countries like South Africa, Czech Republic but because of the complex covid restrictions and norms they decided to go to Turkey for training. The relay teams will then move to Poland. "We have to find a hotel and a country willing to give visas," said the AFI chief. "India is getting warmer and difficult for training. So we are going to places that are safe and good for training. Finland is another country we have been trying. If we get the nod the athletes will move there."

According to AFI, javelin throwers Neeraj Chopra and Shivpal Singh, who have qualified for the Olympics, along with Rohit Yadav, Rajender Singh and Annu Rani have been cleared for a training camp in Turkey later this month.

SQUAD: Men: 4x400 Amoj Jacob, Naganathan P, Md Anas, Arokia Rajiv, Sarthak B, Dharun Ayyasamy, Nirmal Noah Tom Women: 4x400: MR Poovamma, V Subha, Kiran, Anjali, Revathi, VK Vismaya, Jisna Mathew. 4x100: Dhanalakshmi, Dutee Chand, Hima Das, Archana Suseendran, Himashree, Daneshwari.

Lingard inspires West Ham to victory

LONDON: Jesse Lingard inspired West Ham to a 3-2 win at Wolves to move fourth in the Premier League, as Everton's hopes of top-four were dented in a 1-1 draw against Crystal Palace. Lingard ran from inside his own half to slot home his sixth goal in 8 matches.

Nagal crashes out of Italy event

CAGLIARI: India's Sumit Nagal bowed out in the opening round of the ATP 250 Sardegna Open, losing a hard-fought three-set match to Slovakia's Jozef Kovalik on Tuesday. Slovak prevailed 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 in a contest that lasted for two hours and 13 minutes.

Covid impact: IWL postponed

BHUBANESWAR: The Indian Women's League, scheduled to be held in Odisha later this month, was on Tuesday postponed indefinitely in view of the rising Covid-19 cases in the state, the AIFF said. The AIFF said it will take a decision the tournament later.

RCB hope Chahal rediscovers magic touch

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

IF Virat Kohli has been 'Mr. Consistent' for Royal Challengers Bangalore in the batting department, the same can be said of Yuzvendra Chahal when it comes to bowlers. Despite the criticism levelled against their bowling unit season after season, the leg-spinner has been their lone shining light. In the last seven seasons, he has scalped 121 wickets, finishing as the highest-wicket taker for the franchise on four instances.

Can Chahal come up with another big season? If one looks at his performances after the last IPL, things do not look great. In the two ODIs against Australia, he conceded 89 and 71 runs respectively. His numbers don't look any better in T20Is either. Barring his 3/25 against Australia early December, the Haryana-born man scalped four wickets in his last five matches against Australia and England, conceding more than 10 runs per over in four of them.

However, RCB head coach Simon Katich is not too worried and expects him to bounce back. The big plus point for Chahal being that Bangalore will play their first three matches at the MA Chidambaram in Chennai, which has assisted spinners in the past.

"What has happened recently is that England are a good team and he had a tough time. But we also know that he is vastly experienced. And, in the IPL, his record is second to none and he has done a great job for RCB. We start in Chennai, which historically suits the spinners, so hopefully he will get some good assistance in Chennai, " said Katich.

Padikkal's availability?

According to Katich, Devdutt Padikkal, who tested positive on March 22 in Bengaluru, does not have to be quarantined in Chennai after he tests negative. "He would become available the moment he arrives. He doesn't have to go through the quarantine process from what I've been told. The medical officers are available if needed, so he could start training immediately."

NASA's Ingenuity mini-helicopter has survived its first night alone on the frigid surface of Mars, the US space agency said, hailing it as "a major milestone" for the tiny craft as it prepares for its first flight.

Apple chief Tim Cook portrayed self-driving cars as an ideal match for the firm during an interview released by the New York Times. Cook hinted that an option could be to build autonomous-driving tech for auto makers.

Remote-controlled Venus flytrap "robo-plants" and crops that tell farmers when they are hit by disease could become reality after scientists in Singapore developed a high-tech system for communicating with vegetation

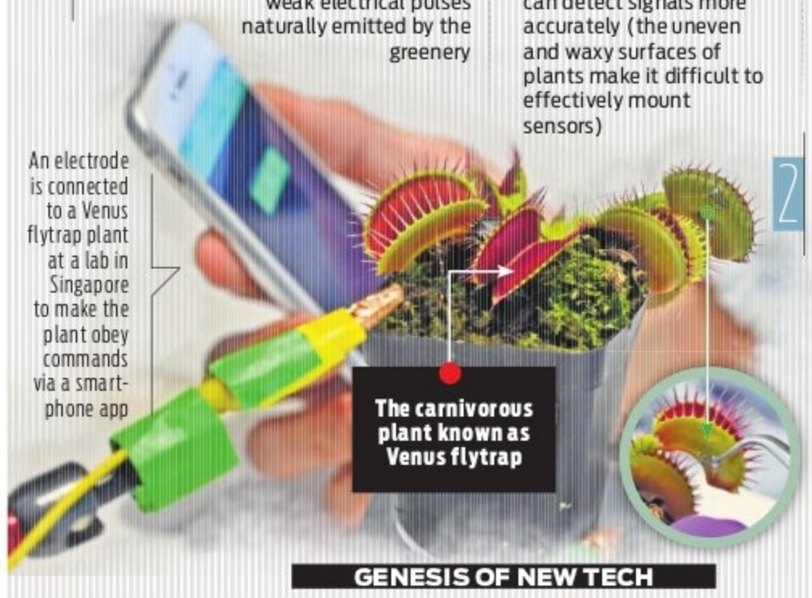
HOW THE MERGER OCCURED

1 CATCHING THE PULSES

Researchers linked up plants to special electrodes capable of monitoring the weak electrical pulses naturally emitted by the greenery

The soft, film-like electrodes fit tightly to the plant's surface and can detect signals more accurately (the uneven and waxy surfaces of plants make it difficult to effectively mount sensors)

The electrodes are attached using a "thermogel", which is liquid at low temperatures but turns into a gel at room temperature



An electrode is connected to a Venus flytrap plant at a lab in Singapore to make the plant obey commands via a smartphone app
The carnivorous plant known as Venus flytrap
2

PUSH OF A BUTTON

The scientists used the technology to trigger a Venus flytrap to snap its jaws shut at the push of a button on a smartphone application

They then attached one of its jaws to a robotic arm and got the contraption to pick up a piece of wire half a millimetre thick, and catch a small falling object

GENESIS OF NEW TECH

HELPING FARMERS

The scientists' system can also pick up signals emitted by plants (the picture above shows a tobacco plant), raising the possibility that farmers will be able to detect problems with their crops at an early stage. Researchers believe such technology could be particularly useful as crops face increasing threats from climate change

The technology is in its early stages, but researchers believe it could eventually be used to build advanced "plant-based robots" that can pick up a host of fragile objects which are too delicate for rigid, robotic arms

"These kinds of nature robots can be interfaced with other artificial robots (to make) hybrid systems," Chen Xiaodong, the lead author of a study on the research at Nanyang Technological University (NTU), said

10 HOURS

There are still challenges to be overcome. Scientists can stimulate the flytrap's jaws to slam shut but can't yet reopen them -- a process that takes 10 or more hours to happen naturally

'Regulator to confirm Astra clot link'

Official highlights causal connection; EU regulator demurs, saying final call not yet taken

MEDICINE

ROME: A top official at the European Medicines Agency said in an interview published on Tuesday there is a causal link between AstraZeneca's coronavirus vaccine and rare blood clots, but that it's still unclear what the connection is and the benefits of taking the vaccine outweigh the risks of getting Covid-19.

Marco Cavaleri, head of health threats and vaccine strategy at the Amsterdam-based regulator, told Rome's Il Messaggero newspaper that the EU medicines regulator is preparing to make a more definitive statement this week.

Based on the evidence to date, Cavaleri said there's a clear association between the AstraZeneca vaccine and the dozens of rare blood clots that have been reported worldwide amid the lakhs of vaccine jabs that have been given out.

Last month, more than a dozen countries suspended their use of AstraZeneca over the blood clot issue. Most restarted — some with age restrictions — after the EMA said the benefits of the vaccine outweighed the risks of not inoculating people. At the time, the EMA recommended the vaccine's leaflet be updated to inform doctors and patients about the rare clots.

Cavaleri said he appreciated the need for an unequivocal European recommendation on the safety of the vaccine for particular age groups but said he didn't expect the EMA to be able to provide that now.

"Certainly the information about the product will be updated, affirming that these adverse events are linked to the vaccine. It will be declared in a very clear way," he was quoted as saying.

The regulator however put out a statement soon after, saying that it is still deciding whether the AstraZeneca coronavirus vaccine causes blood clots. The European Medicines Agency's safety committee "has not yet reached a conclusion and the review is currently ongoing", EMA said.

"We will communicate and hold a press briefing as soon as the review is finalised. This is currently expected tomorrow (Wednesday, 7 April) or on Thursday, 8 April," it added.

The WHO also chimed in on Tuesday. "There's no evidence that the benefit-risk assessment for the vaccine needs to be changed," Rogerio Pinto de Sa Gaspar, the WHO's director for regulation and prequalification, told a press conference

After several countries suspended the use of the AstraZeneca jab, the EMA said on March 18 that the benefits of using it outweighed the risks and it should remain in use. But it has said there is a possible link to rare blood clots and that it would issue updated advice during this week's meeting of its safety panel.

Any further doubts about the AstraZeneca vaccine would be a setback for the shot, a linchpin in the global strategy to get vaccines to poorer countries. Cavaleri said the rare blood clots, including some in the brain, coupled with a low level of blood platelets that may make people at risk of serious bleeding, "seem to be the key event to study further."

> It is becoming more and more difficult to affirm that there isn't a cause-and-effect relationship between AstraZeneca vaccines and the very rare cases of blood clots associated with a low level of (blood) platelets — Marco Cavaleri, European Medicines Agency's head of vax strategy

FDA nod for first new ADHD drug for kids in over 10 years

MEDICINE

US regulators have approved the first new drug in over a decade for children with ADHD, which causes inattention, hyperactivity and impulsivity.

The Food and Drug Administration late Friday OK'd Qelbree (KELL'-bree) for treating attention deficit hyperactivity disorder in children ages 6 to 17. It comes as a capsule that's taken daily.

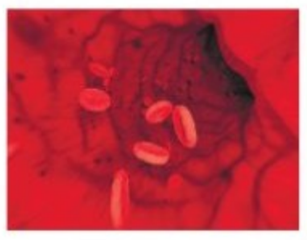
Unlike nearly all other ADHD medicines, Qelbree is not a stimulant or a controlled substance, making it harder to abuse than older drugs. That's been a problem with earlier ADHD treatments like Ritalin, nearly all of which contain the stimulants amphetamine or methylphenidate.

Qelbree, developed by Supernus Pharmaceuticals of Rockville, Maryland, carries a warning of potential for suicidal thoughts and behavior, which occurred in less than 1% of volunteers in studies of the drug. Supernus wouldn't disclose the drug's list price, but it's sure to be higher than the many cheap generic ADHD pills.

For many kids with ADHD, the symptoms include trouble paying attention and completing tasks, fidgeting and impulsiveness.

FACT OF THE MATTER

No Covid link to blood group



STUDY

US researchers have said blood group does not make a person vulnerable to Covid-19 infection nor does it increase the severity, debunking the earlier theories that SARS-CoV-2 infection is linked to certain blood groups. The new study included 11,000 newly infected individuals. The findings in the journal JAMA Network Open showed that the blood types A, B, AB and O were not associated with disease susceptibility or severity. Compared with type O blood, type A was not associated with increased viral positivity, hospitalization or ICU admission. Similarly, types B and AB were not associated with worse outcomes than type O.

Atari creates blockchain unit

TECHNOLOGY

Video game pioneer Atari announced on Tuesday the creation of a blockchain division that will seize on the technology to develop games and a cryptocurrency that players could spend on items. Blockchain technology gives value to cryptocurrency and other "non-fungible tokens" (NFTs) -- such as digital works of art, photos or videos -- by making them impossible to duplicate. The company said it will push its "Atari token" as payment for digital goods within its own "Video Computer System" console and other platforms. Atari is famous for its "Pong" table tennis game, the first video game to achieve serious commercial success.

Indian astronomers trace rare supernova to highly luminous stars

SPACE

NEW DELHI: Tracking a rare supernova explosion, Indian astronomers have traced it to one of the hottest kind of stars, called Wolf-Rayet stars or WR stars.

The rare Wolf-Rayet stars are highly luminous objects a thousand times that of the Sun and have intrigued astronomers for long, the Union Ministry of Science and Technology said in a statement on Tuesday.

They are massive stars and strip their outer hydrogen envelope which is associated with the fusion of helium and other elements in the massive core.

Tracking of certain types of massive luminous supernovae explosion can help probe these stars that remain an enigma for scientists.

A team of astronomers from the Aryabhatta Research Institute of Observational Sciences (ARIES) in Nainital, along with with international collaborators, conducted the optical monitoring of one such stripped-envelope supernova called SN 2015dj hosted in the galaxy NGC 7371 which was spotted in 2015.

They calculated the mass of the star that collapsed to form the supernovae as well as the geometry of its ejection, according to the study published in The Astrophysical Journal.

The scientists also found that the original star was a combination of two stars -- one of them is a massive WR star and another is a star much less in mass than the Sun.

Supernovae are highly energetic explosions in the universe releasing an enormous amount of energy.

Long-term monitoring of these transients opens the door to understand the nature of the exploding star as well as the explosion properties. It can also help enumerate the number of massive stars.

Nepal chokes amid severe fire season

ENVIRONMENT

KATHMANDU: Nepal is experiencing its worst fire season in almost a decade, officials said on Tuesday, as huge blazes rage across the country's forests, engulfing the Himalayan nation in a shroud of brownish haze. Air quality in the capital Kathmandu was ranked on Tuesday as the worst in the world, according to monitoring site IQAir, with some international flights delayed as thick smoke blanketed the city.

"The highest number of wildfires have been reported this season since records of such incidents were maintained nine years ago," the spokesman for Nepal's National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Authority, Uddav Prasad Rijal, told AFP.

Rijal said the winter season between November and February was drier than usual, increasing the risk. The wildfire season starts in November and lasts until the onset of the monsoon in June.

Farmers were also burning parts of forested land to grow grass to feed their livestock, Rijal added.

France to open Rwanda archive

HISTORY

A diet low France's role before and during the 1994 Rwandan genocide was a "monumental failure" that the country must acknowledge, the lead author of a report commissioned by President Emmanuel Macron said, as the country is about to open its archives from this period to the public.

Tens of thousands of Rwandan refugees in 1996 | AP

The report, published in March, concluded that French authorities remained blind to the preparations for genocide as they supported the "racist" and "violent" government of then-Rwandan President Juvénal Habyarimana and then reacted too slowly in appreciating the extent of the killings. But it cleared them of complicity in the slaughter that left over 800,000 people dead, mainly ethnic Tutsis and the Hutus who tried to protect them. Macron's decision to commission the report — and open the archives to the public — is part of efforts to finally help the two countries reconcile.

Masks & good ventilation can halt coronavirus spread better than distancing, finds study

SCIENCE

WASHINGTON: Masks and a good ventilation system are more important than social distancing for reducing the airborne spread of COVID-19 inside a room, a modelling study suggests.

In the research, published in the journal Physics of Fluids, the researchers created a computer model of a classroom with students and a teacher.

They then modelled airflow and disease transmission, and calculated airborne-driven transmission risk.

The classroom model was 709 square feet with 9-foot-tall ceilings, similar to a smaller-size classroom.

The model had masked students -- any one of whom could be infected -- and a masked teacher at the front of the classroom.

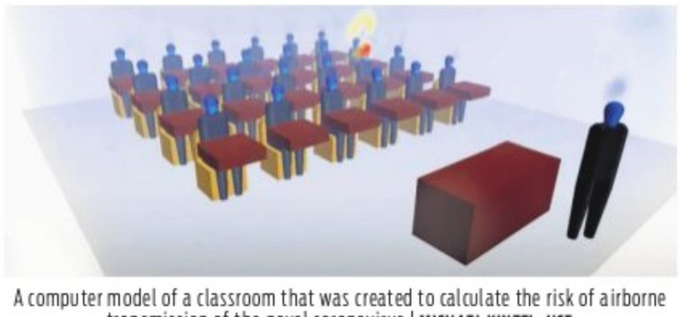
"The research is important as it provides guidance on how we are understanding safety in indoor environments," said Michael Kinzel, an assistant professor at the University of Central Florida in the US.

"The study finds that aerosol transmission routes do not display a need for six feet social distancing when masks are mandated," Kinzel said.

The study highlights that with masks, transmission probability does not decrease with increased physical distancing, which emphasises how mask mandates may be important to increasing capacity in schools and other places, according to the researchers.

The team examined the classroom using two scenarios -- a ventilated classroom and an unventilated one -- and using two models, Wells-Riley and Computational Fluid Dynamics.

Wells-Riley is commonly used to assess indoor transmission probability and Computational Fluid Dynamics is often used to understand the aerodynamics of cars, aircraft and the underwater movement of submarines.



A computer model of a classroom that was created to calculate the risk of airborne transmission of the novel coronavirus | MICHAEL KINZEL, UCF

Masks were shown to be beneficial by preventing direct exposure of aerosols, as they provide a weak puff of warm air that causes aerosols to move vertically, thus preventing them from reaching adjacent students, Kinzel said.

The researchers noted that a ventilation system in combination with a good air filter reduced the infection risk by 40 to 50 per cent compared to a classroom with no ventilation.

This is because the ventilation system creates a steady current of air flow that circulates many of the aerosols into a filter that removes a portion of the aerosols compared to the no-ventilation scenario where the aerosols congregate above the people in the room.

These results corroborate recent guidelines from the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that recommend reducing social distancing in elementary schools from six to three feet when mask use is universal, Kinzel said.

"If we compare infection probabilities when wearing masks, three feet of social distancing did not indicate an increase in infection probability with respect to six feet, which may provide evidence for schools and other businesses to safely operate through the rest of the pandemic," Kinzel said.

Smells like team spirit

RCB fans are making pandemic-tailored plans – virtual match parties, blood donation camps, releasing anthems – all to cheer their favourite team on ahead of IPL season

SIMRAN AHUJA

PRATHAMESH Avachare has been clocking in late nights at work these past few days, and not because he's a workaholic. He's an ardent Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB) fan who doesn't mind working till 3am if he can watch his favourite team play uninterrupted once IPL matches begin later this week.

And he isn't the only one making pandemic-tailored plans to cheer his team on and keep the fan spirit high.

Avachare, who co-founded ViratGang – a fan club with 90,000 followers on FaceBook – is busy organising 'watch parties' for RCB-Mumbai Indians match on April 9. "We wanted to recreate the infectious vibe that watching a match in a stadium used to provide. So we'll have 20-25 fans for each match and all of us can record our reactions together on Zoom," says the Nasik-based 25-year-old.

Covid-19 was a turning point for members of Bengaluru-based Bleed Namma RCB, which organised a blood donation camp, in association with the Kadala Theerada Bharghava movie team, on Sunday. Around 150 fans donated 60 litres of blood. "The Covid-situation inspired us to take up a social cause. We thought that a requirement for blood might be the need of the hour. We might plan another drive after 5-6 matches," says Sagar Siddu, who donated 350ml of blood. Musicians Raghu Dixit and All Ok, actors Brinda Acharya and Disha Poovaiah, also attended the event. Had there been no pandemic, the club's members would watched the game at the now closed Ee Sala Cup Namde cafe in Jayanagar.

Members of Namma Team RCB, on the other hand, are considering watching the match together in limited numbers (not exceeding 25) at a pub in the city. "But we are waiting for government orders," says founder Preetham Karigar. The group is known to have turned up at IPL matches with 30ft x 8ft and 50ft x 30ft hand-painted banners.

Forty-three-year-old 'Superfan' Sugumar D, who got his moniker for watching games at M Chinnaswamy Stadium in extravagant costumes, says he's been receiving invites to be a part of many fan-made anthems, including one by Nodu-Maga YouTube channel and will be out on April 8.

City-based composer and guitarist, Hemanth Jois, got 20,000 views on the day he released his song on his YouTube channel.

"I express myself through music so I made this song, which I composed in 2019. You hardly find any hard rock songs in Kannada so I hope this anthem gives people the push they need while working out," says the 29-year-old.

The song is about the team's fans who support RCB irrespective of their performance. "I shouldn't say this, but we're used to losing," he laughs. "But we're loyal fans and never give up on RCB."

WHEN CRICKET BOWLED THEM OVER

Bowled over by the IPL, a lot of fans have done some pretty unbelievable things. Sagar Siddu once missed a college exam to watch RCB play Chennai Super Kings in 2012. Hemanth Jois and his friends stopped by several bakeries on the way home, buying things they didn't want, just so they could catch the score on the TV. Sugumar D spent 15 days in the UAE to watch four RCB games in 2014, decked out as a king of the esrtwhile Mysore kingdom and traditional Karntaka attire.

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

THE QUIZ WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

Send answers to bengalurucityexpress@gmail.com with the subject line 'Know Your City Quiz'

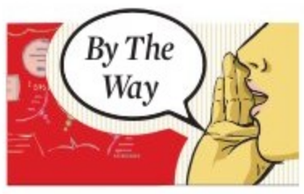
Correct answers and names of first three respondents with right answers will be featured in CE on Thursday.

QUESTIONS

1. Bangalore Central Jail was established in the year 1867 by the British. The old jail located on Sheshadri Road has been converted to a memorial park after it was shifted to Parappana Agrahara on the outskirts of the city in 2000. What is the name of the memorial park?
2. The state's administrative offices were earlier housed in the present High Court building before being shifted to Vidhana Soudha in 1956. What was the High Court building earlier known as?
3. Parsis are a minority community in Bengaluru with just about 300 families settled in the city. A fire temple, perhaps, the only one in Bengaluru was built in 1926 with the help of Dinshaw Cawasji, a contractor from Mumbai and called the 'Baidhanmai and Cawasji Dadabhai Dar-E-Meher'. Where is the fire temple located?



SCRIPTING SUCCESS

Bengaluru-based writer Samhita Arni was recently in Kochi for the inauguration of Barroz, Mohanlal's directorial debut, written by Jijo Punnoose. The script advisor (who will be giving feedback on the script), got to see Mohanlal and Prithviraj Sukumaran in rehearsal. "And met the amazingly talented Santosh Sivan, whose work I have admired for so long," read her post on social media. Way to go!

SANATH PRASAD

Back to basics

The Simply Live series is Swarathma's ode to the bare essentials of music: Artistes and their instruments

THE past year has prompted many people to re-think their lives, and Swarathma's band members are no different. In the past few weeks, the five-member band has released 'Simply Live', a series of acoustic video songs that strip music down to the bare essentials: the artistes and their instruments.

Jishnu Dasgupta, on bass and vocals, says the acoustic series is aimed at giving the audience a musical treat without any amplification and presenting music in its original form. "The Simply Live series is a result of not being able to perform during the pandemic. We could not connect with our audience and interact with them through our music. So, getting into a room with just our acoustic instruments and belting out our songs was a great way to just regain our sanity," says Dasgupta.

The first song of the series, Sur Mera, was conceptualised by Vasu Dixit, and hit social media on February 26. It talks about how individuals lose their spark, or their creativity, and the beauty of finding it again.

The second song Pyasi, released on March 12, was also conceptualised by Dixit, and aims to shine a light on the conflict between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu over the water of the Cauvery river. Dixit believes that humans are part of nature and not above nature. "Pyasi is dedicated to River Cauvery. The song tries to convey that Cauvery is quenching the thirst of its sons and daughters. But when they fight among themselves, the river itself gets thirsty. It is all about how we look at nature," says Dixit.

Kaash, released on April 2, is a ballad that talks about regret, and one's attitude towards it. "It is very macho to say I do not like to live with regrets. But is that really the case? I think we should try to make peace with the regret we feel," says Dasgupta, who conceptualised the song.

The other two tracks from the Simply Live series – Manwa and Rishton ka Raasta – are expected to release later this month. The acoustic video series was shot and recorded live on a single day in November 2020 and is available on the band's YouTube and Instagram accounts.

"With these videos, my intention was to capture the essence of jamming without getting caught up with the intricacies of mics and technical stuff. The idea was also to strip down the set without running click track along with supporting tracks that we use during a regular live gig," says the band's guitarist and producer Varun Murali.

Kyaabre, a new Kannada web series, features Shraddha of Pushpavalli fame and tells the story of the quirky tenants of Flat No 301 who become friends

MONIKA MONALISA

Fun, Friendship and FOREVER

WITH Covid cases going up, it is advisable to stay indoors, meaning the scramble for finding something good to watch on OTT platforms continues. If that's the case, you might want to check out Kyaabre, a new Kannada web series by YouTube channel Tharle Box.

Released on April 3, the series touches on the theme of fun-filled friendships. The first episode has touched 1.5 lakh views. Along with Siri Ravikumar, Vijay Krishna, Aditya Parashar, Naveen Kumar J, and Soundarya Nagraj, who play the lead characters, the series also features Shraddha of Pushpavalli fame.

Shraddha plays the character of Shakuntala, a house help, who is known for her 'savage' replies. "Contrary to popular notions, Shakuntala is not at all funny, neither is she animated. The situation is such that her replies always come across as funny to other people," says Shraddha.

The actor had a long stint in radio before trying her hand at anchoring. Way before her professional acting career took off, she has been releasing small videos of various funny characters which made her a household name.

Shraddha has no qualms agreeing with the view that her character in the series is quite similar to the caricatures she created. "One must have heard actors saying that they want to do characters out of their comfort zone. But as I have just begun, my comfort zone is very small. So when the director of the show, Siddhanth Sundar reached out to me with the role, I took it up," says Shraddha, adding that she is currently focusing on improv and acting, career-wise.

The actor also feels blessed to be in the industry at a time when content is given preference. "Now the writer's team has a lot of pressure on them to create good content. They can't hide behind the name of a production house or a popular actor," she adds.

Sundar agrees. For instance, while Shraddha is already a known actor, actors playing the other characters are relatively new to acting, but they decided to introduce the character in episode 4. "It all depends on the script. I reached out to Shraddha, solely because she was fit for that role," says Sundar, adding that seven of the 11 episode series are yet to be released.

FIT BIT

UTTHITA MARICHYASANA

(EXTENDED MARICHI'S POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'utthita' means extended or stretched, 'mariachi' refers to a Hindu sage, and 'asana' means pose. It is a basic to intermediate standing twist that stretches the waist, sides and hips and serves as a preparatory pose for more challenging twists. It releases tension from the spine and the internal organs and provides an energy boost. It activates the Svadisthana (sacral) Chakra, which is the centre of creative energy, emotional stability, sexual energy, pleasure and joy. In other variations of the pose, both hands press against the wall with the arms bent at the elbows or reach straight overhead and touch the wall. For a more challenging variation, stand with his/her back to the wall and then twist toward the wall.

STEPS

- Stand in Tadasana (Mountain Pose).
- Lift your right leg up and bend your knee. You can also practise using a chair or against a wall.
- Inhale and lift your left arm above your head.
- Exhale and twist your torso to your right side.
- Place your left elbow on your right knee and deepen your twist.
- Inhale and straighten your back. Lift your right hand up and extend it sideways.
- Fix your gaze at a spot in front.
- You can stay in this pose for 3 to 6 long breaths.
- Slowly try to release the leg down. Come back into Tadasana and relax for a few breaths.
- You can repeat the pose on your other side for the same length of time.

BENEFITS

- Improves your focus, concentration and sense of balance.
- Useful to increase patience and determination.
- Helps strengthen the lower body muscles.
- Regular practice of this asana stretches the spine.
- Helps build self-confidence.
- Helps in massaging the abdominal organs.
- Improves digestion.
- Helps calm your mind.
- Helps in preventing sciatica.

LIMITATIONS

- Those suffering from severe back, neck, leg or shoulder injuries should avoid this.
- Avoid if you have a serious cardiac condition, blocked arteries, high or low BP, migraine, severe eye strain, bronchitis, breathlessness, chronic fatigue, depression, insomnia, asthma, diarrhea, constipation, or osteoarthritis of the knees.
- Women should avoid this during menstruation.

MANOHAR PARRIKAR: BRILLIANT MIND, SIMPLE LIFE

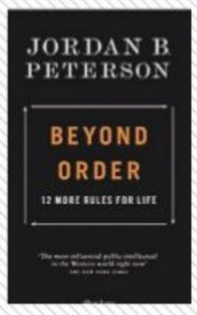
Author: Nitin A Gokhale
Pages: 300

Manohar Parrikar was India's first IIT-qualified chief minister. But that description doesn't capture even a fraction of his achievements. This book, published by Bloomsbury, is as much a personal tribute by the author, Nitin A Gokhale, to his friend, as an attempt to capture the persona of Parrikar, the man, the politician and patriot. Through the eyes of his family, friends and countless admirers, the book dwells deep into his early influences, his journey from a village in Goa to defence minister, one of the highest posts in the country.

THE WAR THAT MADE R&AW

Author: Anusha Nandakumar & Sandeep Saket
Pages: 256

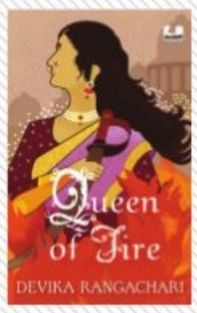
Two events in the 1960s underlined the urgent need to restructure and revitalise India's Intelligence system: the 1962 war against China, and the one against Pakistan in 1965, both shocking instances of intelligence failure. The officer who would be given charge of remedying this was R N Kao — someone as unlike romanticised ideals of spies in films and novels as possible. The head of India's Research and Analysis Wing lived and operated from the shadows. Understated and gentlemanly, he may not have looked the part, but Kao undoubtedly put Indian intelligence on the world map. In this book, the authors trace the roots of modern Indian espionage, and describe the newly formed R&AW's integral role in the liberation of Bangladesh.



BEYOND ORDER: 12 MORE RULES FOR LIFE

Author: Jordan B Peterson
Pages: 432

In the sequel to 12 Rules for Life, public thinker and clinical psychologist Jordan B Peterson shows that part of life and meaning comes from reaching out into the domain beyond what we know, and adapting to an ever-transforming world. While an excess of chaos threatens us with uncertainty, an excess of order leads to a lack of curiosity and creative vitality. Beyond Order calls on us to balance the two fundamental principles of reality – order and chaos – and reveals the profound meaning that can be found on the path that divides them. In times of instability and suffering, Peterson reminds us that there are sources of strength on which we can all draw: Insights borrowed from psychology, philosophy, and humanity and greatest myths and stories.

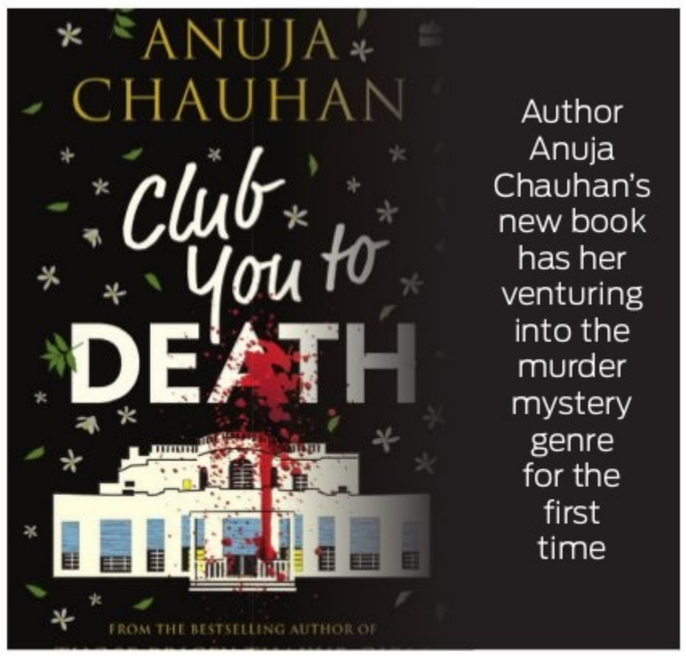


QUEEN OF FIRE

Author: Devika Rangachari
Pages: 124

Lakshmibai the widowed queen of Jhansi, is determined to protect her son's right to his father's throne, and the welfare of the kingdom she is ruling. Faced with the British machinations to take over her kingdom, at a time when all of India is aflame with the fire of the first War of Independence, she has to prove her valour and sagacity again and again. But will this be enough to save all that she values? Historical novelist Devika Rangachari brings to life the internal life of this 19th century queen, thrust into a position she does not desire but must assume, and of her son, who is cowed by the challenges he has to face but determined to live up to his mother's boldness and courage.

CHARTING A NEW PLOT



Author Anuja Chauhan's new book has her venturing into the murder mystery genre for the first time

MONIKA MONALISA

Anuja Chauhan has penned many books but her latest one has left her feeling equal parts nervous and thrilled. Her maiden murder mystery is called Club You To Death (HarperCollins, ₹319). The city-based writer speaks to CE about the genre, what drew her to it, the plot, inspiration behind the lead protagonist ACP Bhavani Singh, and more. Edited excerpts from an interview:

The book is set in Delhi. Although you have been living in Bengaluru for a while now, your love affair with Delhi continues through your book. What is it about Delhi that makes it a muse for your books?
This is my third book which is based in Delhi, after The Zoya Factor and The Pricey Thakur Girls. But there are so many other books which are not set in Delhi.

What was the most challenging thing about writing the book?
I usually have some amount of the plot in my head. Initially you start with characters, figuring out who they are, but as it proceeds, you follow the plot and by the end it's all about the plot.

Are you a fan of whodunits?
I read across all genres but I also love whodunits. I love the old-school whodunits which have a lot of suspense, psychological insight and back stories. I don't like the grimmer ones. I like Rebecca by Dame Daphne du Maurier.

Was there any real-life inspiration for your character ACP Bhavani Singh?
All my characters are usually based on reality. ACP Bhavani to me is a very North Indian uncle-ji kind of policeman. My grandfather was a policeman and so was his brother who was very gentlemanly. They were not glamorous as in the movies, like you see with alcohol addiction or dark past. The are fairly simple men doing their job in the best possible way.

Did the lockdown help create the right mood to finish the book?
I started writing in January, when there was no lockdown. I had sent my children away, and my husband and I were living the empty nest life. So I thought I would have long spells of just writing. But due to the lockdown my children were back. But somehow, it didn't interrupt my writing at all. Writing was like an escape to normalcy where people didn't wear masks and you can have lemonade lunches on the lawn of some club.

Do you still feel the same excitement you did the first time you published a book?
Yeah, of course. It does not grow old for anyone. I am as nervous, as anxious and as eager to get feedback on a new book as I was for the first book. You always want to know what people think and as you get older as a writer, you get paranoid about people lying to you.

Do you think your books get well-translated on screen?
I don't write movies, I write books. Maybe because of my advertising training, I have a writing style where you can imagine the book like a movie. I don't know if that translates to an easier adaption of a movie or not.

What's next for you?
I am working on a couple of movie screenplays that I have been commissioned to write. I am going to write another book based on the same detective character because he seems to be doing well and I also am quite fond of him.

Anuja Chauhan

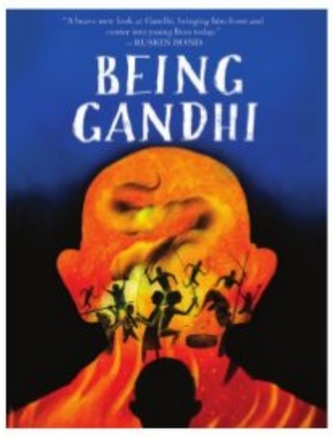
Devdutt Pattanaik retells iconic stories of Abrahamic lore in new book

Mythologist Devdutt Pattanaik will introduce readers to the mythology of angels, demons, prophets and kings of the Abrahamic religions: Judaism, Christianity and Islam, in his new book, Eden: An Indian Retelling of Jewish, Christian and Islamic lore (Viking). The bestselling author of Jaya, Sita, Shyam, and Olympus will now chronicle the Abrahamic myths that emerged in the Middle East over 3,000 years ago and formed the foundation of some of the world's major religions. This myth of loss, and rescue, the author argues, plays a key role in shaping secular Western ideologies such as capitalism, communism, socialism, and scientism that dominate the world today. The book will also include stories from Mesopotamian, Egyptian, Greek, Ugarit and Zoroastrian mythologies that shaped the monotheistic worldview, as well as stories from Indo-Christian and Indo-Islamic folklore that it inspired in South Asia. -IANS

Author to present fresh perspective on Gandhi



Bal Sahitya Puraskar winner Paro Anand's novel Being Gandhi explores, not Gandhi the man or his life as a leader, but the Gandhian way that one must follow to lead a meaningful life. During her session at the NLF Reading Challenge for Junior Readers, author Paro Anand will interact with the children on her book, putting values of the Father of the Nation into a fresh perspective. The session will be held on April 9, at 5.30 pm. To register and know more about the author and her book, visit the Facebook and Instagram pages of Neev Literature Festival.

WHY THE SECOND COVID WAVE STRIKES NO FEAR

It's here, folks! The dreaded second wave of Covid-19 has arrived, and like a well-made Hollywood sequel, seems to be more fearsome than its predecessor. As states grapple with the implications, the second wave has witnessed larger number of infections at a much faster rate.

Surprisingly, the junta doesn't seem to be too affected. We seem to have convinced ourselves that the worst is over. Much like a film, the sequel doesn't seem to have caused much interest among the general public. Take a look at advertisements, for example.

Everything from detergents to air conditioners have simply changed their positioning, and claim to kill germs that cause deadly diseases. If you're travelling by an airline and are cursed with the middle seat, you are offered an entire PPE kit, resembling a bomb squad specialist. It's a different matter that the seats are so close to each other, you can hear your neighbour's thoughts!

Last year, political parties had united in urging people to stay indoors. But this year, they seem to have thrown caution to the wind too. With elections in strategically important states like Tamil Nadu and West Bengal, we have witnessed chief ministers and the prime minister address large rallies of people. These rallies were attended by multitudes, as if to ask – what is a second wave in front of a Modi or Mamata wave?

It's a curious phenomenon – this lack of fear of the virus. As a responsible journalist, I tried to study the reasons behind this. And I have a few theories. It could be because we have witnessed a number of high-profile people who tested positive, but have resumed their work without much fanfare.

Union home minister Amit Shah tested positive, and has since returned to duty. Our vice president Venkaiah Naidu also tested positive last year, and is back to fulfil his duties. Film stars have also tested positive. Aamir Khan – whose films ask pertinent questions to the public, has tested positive along with his 3 Idiots co-star Madhavan. Akshay Kumar – who leads an extremely healthy lifestyle and has no real flaws (except perhaps, for a Canadian passport) has tested positive as well. But perhaps the final straw that broke the virus' back was the news that Sachin Ramesh Tendulkar tested positive as well.

Such was the confidence of the Indian public that they thronged to stadiums to witness a tournament featuring senior cricketers (many of them in the vulnerable age for contracting the virus). Along with Sachin, his teammates S Badrinath and Yusuf Pathan have also tested positive. The tournament and its organisers are now being looked at as 'super-spreaders'. But the surprising factor is that Sachin's Covid result was not even front-page news. It was mentioned along with regular news of celebrities partying at Maldives.

But here's the one big flaw that people don't seem to understand. The people mentioned above are superstars in their own right. They have access to hospitals and the best healthcare. Which is not necessarily true for you and me.

As someone who celebrates his birthday in April, it's a nostalgic feeling for me – not getting to celebrate my birthday with friends and family. However, it's a luxury I'll gladly accept this year. To think that we used to blow on candles and feed each other cake with our own hands! So please stay home, dear reader. It's time for us to all become superheroes again. Just remember that Batman never leaves home without his mask!

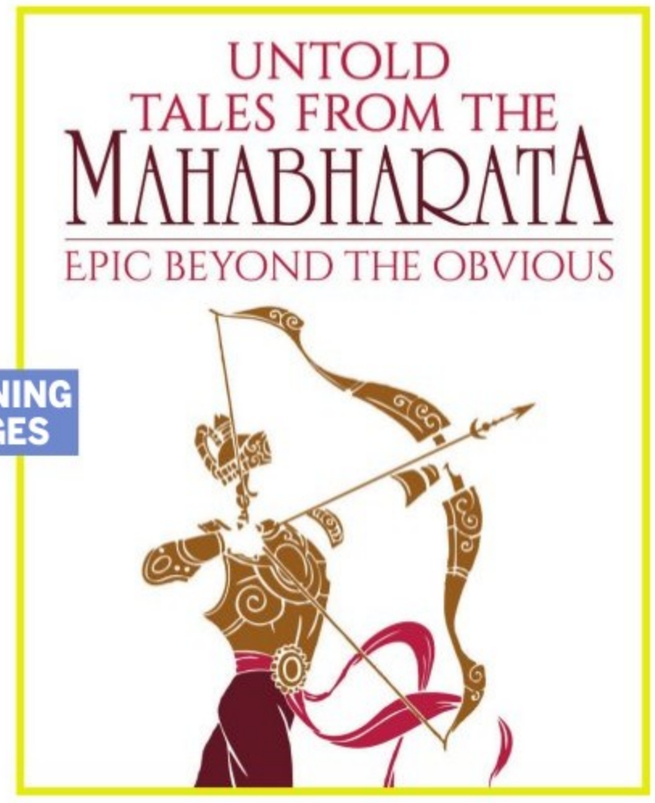
'Dronacharya firms up a strategy to attack Abhimanyu from behind'



'O Destroyer of the Universe! Grant me a boon so that I can defeat all the five Pandavas in battle.'

'O Jayadrath. You are asking for the impossible. What you ask for contradicts a boon I had given Arjun many years ago, impressed as I was when he gave me a tough fight. I granted him the knowledge and use of the formidable Pashupatastra.'

However, I will grant you a boon which comes close to what you have asked. On a day that you choose, you will be able to defeat the other four Pandava brothers - Yudhishtir, Bhim, Nakul and Sahadev. On that day, you will be unstoppable and no one will be able to defeat you. The effect of the boon will wear off once the day comes to an end.'

Jayadrath who has been waiting for an opportunity to strike back at the Pandavas, finds his moment during the bloody Kurukshetra war, with Arjun's son Abhimanyu.

He thinks to himself, 'If I kill Abhimanyu, Arjun will be crestfallen and will not have the heart to fight us. Abhimanyu's death will further create dissensions and the brothers will part ways. Once that happens, it is a matter of time before we vanquish the Pandavas.'

Back on the battlefield, Dronacharya notices the absence of Arjun who is away from the theatre of action, fighting Susharma and his army. This is a deliberate ploy to wean him away when they implement their strategy to end the war once and for all - the formation of the Chakravyuh. With its creation, the Kauravas gain the upper hand and casualties mount on the other side. That is when Yudhishtir gets worried and asks for Abhimanyu's willingness to enter the Chakravyuh.

The excited young warrior is more than pleased to take up the assignment and prepares to pierce the circle. He succeeds in entering the Chakravyuh and in no time shows by raking up the dead bodies of soldiers as he makes his way into the innermost circle. The fury of his arrows is unabated. Even Dronacharya and Karna are unable to face the teenager's onslaught. Seeing the havoc that a mere teenager has caused, Duryodhan lambasts Dronacharya.

'O Great Guru,' he says mockingly. 'I thought that the Chakravyuh would seal the issue in our favour, but it is turning out to be counter-productive. Why are we not able to stop Abhimanyu?'

'Way back when you were my students, Arjun learnt the Kavacha Dharan Mantra, a spell that will encase the warrior in an impenetrable armour, making him invincible on the battlefield. I suspect that he has passed it on to his son. As long as Abhimanyu has the protection of the mantra, let alone me, nobody in the Kaurava army can defeat him. However, the mantra has a vulnerability. If we attack Abhimanyu from the rear and break his bow, the mantra is neutralised,' replies Dronacharya.

Jayadrath stands like a wall and is unconquerable. He displays amazing power and succeeds in stopping not only the Pandava brothers but anyone who dares to enter the Chakravyuh.

All the while, Abhimanyu assumes that he has back-up support from Yudhishtir, Bhim, Drupad and Drushtadumnya; but they are effectively blocked by Jayadrath, who is unstoppable on this day, according to the boon given to him by Lord Shiva.

Jayadrath stands like a wall and is unconquerable. He displays amazing power and succeeds in stopping not only the Pandava brothers but anyone who dares to enter the Chakravyuh.

Meanwhile, Sanjay narrates to Dhritarashtra the proceedings on the battlefield. 'O King! Your son-in-law is fighting like a possessed warrior. He is moving with lightning speed, scattering the Pandava soldiers, and defeating the Pandava brothers themselves. He is standing like an impenetrable wall separating Abhimanyu from the rest of the Pandavas.' A smile escapes the face of the blind king.

On the battlefield, Dronacharya firms up a strategy to attack Abhimanyu from behind without his knowledge -a move that goes against the tenets of dharma and does not conform to the rules of engagement.

Ganesh does a jig with three heroines for Tribble Riding

This particular song is written by Chandan Shetty, who will also be rendering his voice to the track

Aditi Prabhudeva

Megha Shetty

Rachana Inder

A SHARADHAA

GANESH, who completes a schedule for Suni's Sakath, has hopped onto the sets of Tribble Riding and has begun shoot of the first song. The film, directed by Mahesh Gowda, will have the Golden Star shaking a leg with the three female leads -- Megha Shetty, Rachana Inder, and Aditi Prabhudeva.

The song is being canned on grand sets, and has Murali master doing the dance choreography. Interestingly, for this song composer Sai Kartheek has come up with a peppy number, lyrics for which are penned by well-known rapper, Chandan Shetty. He has also sung the track.

Tribble Riding will be Ganesh's first film to hit theatres this year. However, the release date is yet to be fixed.

Touted to be a family comedy-drama, bankrolled by Ramgopal, the film also includes well-known artistes, Sadhu Kokila, Rangayana Raghu, Ravi Shankar Gowda, Kuri Pratap, and senior actors like Umesh and Dingri Nagaraj in the cast.

The film's cinematography is handled by DoP Jai Anand. The film, which began shooting on October 19 last year, has been filmed in the green belt of Chikkamagaluru, while a few portions are being filmed in Bengaluru. Ganesh also has Yogaraj Bhat's directorial Gaalipata 2 in the pipeline.

First look of Anupam Kher's Happy Birthday out

CE FEATURES

THE first look of Anupam Kher and Ahana Kumra's Happy Birthday is out. The short film's poster features Anupam standing inside a room, holding a pink dress in his hands, with Aahana standing right behind him. Directed by Prasad Kadam, the short film recently made it to the final of the Paris Play Film Festival and was also selected for New York City International Film Festival.

Speaking about the film, Kher says, "I enjoy working with young talent as they are enthusiastic and eager. They keep me charged as I take it as a challenge to keep reinventing myself. The short film is especially exciting and it gives me an opportunity to do something different. I'm glad that Happy Birthday is garnering international recognition. Congratulations to the entire team."

Kumra adds,"I said yes to the film the minute I read the script. I think it was a very powerful script. It was very moving and you know it's a dark thriller despite that the performances of the actors will hold. Because the script is written so well. I am so excited that it has been selected for the Paris Play Film Festival and I really look forward to the finals because I really think this film has great potential. Director Prasad (Kadam) has done a fantastic job along with the entire team and the credit goes to the crew and Anupam sir, off course so happy to be sharing screen space with him once again, I couldn't be happier than this."

The short film will mark Kher and Kumra's second collaboration after 2019's The Accidental Prime Minister. Happy Birthday is scheduled to release later this year.

Helu Yaake... Second single from Ek Love Ya to be out on April 13

The lyrics of this song about 'love failures' has been penned by director Prem himself, who has sung the track as well

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Prem, who had released the first song of his upcoming directorial Ek Love Ya on Valentine's Day, is all set to unveil the second single on April 13. An announcement to this was made by the director on his official Twitter handle, which mentioned "Second song 'Helu Yaake' from our Ekloveya will be out on Ugadi 13th April at 11 am. Keep loving and keep supporting; love you all (sic)."

What's special about this song, which features debutant Raana, is that revolves around 'love failures. It has been penned by director Prem himself, who has also sung the emotional track as well. The music is composed by director Arjun Janya. This particular song is backed by a special symphony orchestra in the United Kingdom. According to Prem, the compositions for this track alone cost the production house ₹18 lakh.

The film, which is currently in the post-production stage, will be released in multiple languages. However, they are yet to decide the release date. "Owing to the current Covid situation and 50 per cent occupancy in theatres, it is getting difficult for us to fix the release date. However, we are hoping to finalise a date and will do the announcement as soon as possible ," says Prem.

Ek Love Ya is made under Rakshitha Film Factory, and marks the debut of Reeshma Nanaiah. She, along with Rachita Ram, will feature in the female leads of the film that has DOP Mahendra Simha cranking the camera. For Ek Love Ya, Prem has picked up a story of a real-life couple, giving it a fictional touch for cinematic flavour. The film also has actor and producer Rakshita making a guest appearance.
